

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 27

Audistin was the favorite place for the upper-class society in Bayside City due to the excellent services provided there. Sophia loved this place and Michael was the Boss behind the place.

As one of the few platinum members, she was able to pre-book all of the services here for free. In fact, she was able to enjoy all of the services provided with the best quality, which were offered in all the clubs under the Audistin group free of charge.

Tsk, there are so many benefits to being the Boss's woman, but it would be better if he is less perverted!

She went to the private room to look for Gwen, who was one of the gold-rated trainers here.

Gwen was one of the most highly valued fitness trainers in Bayside City. Under her training, all of her students were able to attain six-packs and a slim waist. Therefore, her fees were extremely expensive and it was difficult to book a session with her. Apart from that, there were still a bunch of celebrities who would use all their resources to scramble to book a course with her.

Standing at 1.75 meters, she was a woman with an enviable figure and a perfect body-to-fat ratio at 20%. She had an hourglass figure with six-packs and her figure was completely proportioned according to the golden ratio. She had cold yet stunning facial features, which made her seem like she was constantly aloof.

Sophia walked into the private room with light footsteps when Gwen was quietly practicing yoga inside. She silently sneaked behind Gwen before throwing a punch at her back with speed, strength and accuracy.

However, the punch unexpectedly didn't land on her. Gwen made a move at the speed of lighting. Her palm pressed on Sophia's seemingly rapid fist and instead pinned her down on the floor in a counter attack move.

"Ouch! Master, have mercy on me!" Sophia's face was pressed on the floor while she cried in pain. My arm is about to break soon!

Outsiders only knew that Gwen was a yoga and fitness trainer. However, that was not exactly true. She actually specialized in women's combat skill and proficient in Judo, Muay Thai, Karate and many other martial arts. As the Boss's wife, Sophia knew way more about her than other people.

For instance, before Gwen became a fitness trainer, she was a retired special agent for the country with excellent fighting skills. An ordinary person definitely would not be able to reserve a combat skill course with her unless that person was a platinum member like Sophia.

A smile seemed to appear on Gwen's lips before she immediately returned to her usual cold expression. "You can come at me again. Let me see how bad you are after taking a break for these few days!"

Sophia rose to her full height and continued to make her moves without patting off the dust on her. Although she horribly lost to Gwen every time, the continuous beating process actually caused her combat skills to improve tremendously.

The two people started to fight in the private room, but Sophia was being chased and beaten for half of the right and only managed to gain a shred of chance to launch a counter attack recently. Nevertheless, when compared to Gwen, whose skill was immeasurable, Sophia was as weak as a chicken.

Whenever Sophia booked a private class with Gwen, Hale would come to watch. As he had just arrived, he now sat straight at one side with a cup in his hand while pointing and instructing Gwen, “Gwen, she’s the Boss’s woman. Just use simple moves on her.”

As if she did not hear a word he said, Gwen’s move on Sophia was still harsh, seeing that it was a personal request from the latter since she had intended to become stronger soonest possible. So, not only did Sophia need to arm her mind and purse, arming her body was inevitable as well.

Hale would always watch their training for two reasons—one was to prevent Sophia from being bashed to death by Gwen and the other was because he found the fight between them damn interesting!

Ever since he was ordered to protect Sophia, he had completely bid farewell to his glorious days of the past—where he had to dance on a razor’s edge—and enjoyed an early retirement by spending his entire day with a cup of tea, a newspaper, and the game ‘Mobile Legends’ downloaded on his phone.

His days were so calm and peaceful that he became bored with it, so he enjoyed watching the fights between the women, especially when they both had hourglass figures that he fancied.

At the same time, there were three men working out in one of the VIP private gyms in Audistin.

Harry still had his daring golden hair that gleamed under the lights. He was training his muscles and his biceps were in a perfect condition, so he was practically drenched in sweat. After completing a set, he took a selfie at the mirror and posted it on Twitter before he continued to work out.

While training his muscles, he uttered, “Three men working out in a gym together. They must be gays.”

“You have just recently married, so I didn’t expect you to actually work out together with us, the two bachelors. If I were you, I would be embracing my lovely wife in bed, making love to her over and over again.”

Michael was doing push-ups with one arm. His half-naked body was sexy as boiling sweat beads fell one after another on the floor. His body was tense as a result of his movement, showing a flawless streamline and his well-defined muscles were overflowing with masculinity.

He remained quiet while the phone, which was placed on the floor, was playing the footage taken by the security camera in the private room where Sophia was in. It turns out that my wild kitty is here to polish her claws!

Although he was a little reluctant to let her experience this, he still felt that a wild kitty should behave like one. He preferred a woman who was a little feisty as it would be more challenging to conquer her.

Daniel, who had probably completed his set of workout, was reading the newspaper while drinking tea. There were large, bolded words on the headline of the newspaper that read, ‘Two emperors unite!

The union of the Golden Bell Awards for Best Actor, Ethan Winston, and the Golden Horse Awards for Best Actor, Taylor Murray, was held in the Netherlands with an apparent registration of marriage. The Winston couple is no longer the imagination of the fans!’

Taylor Murray was Michael Fletcher’s stage name while Ethan Winston was Harry Winston’s.

Daniel put down the newspaper before raising his eyes and asked, “The both of you went to register for marriage in the Netherlands?”

“Ugh!” Harry, who was training his biceps, replied.

“Ugh!” Michael, who was earnestly peering at his wife, replied as well.

After completing a set, he rose to his full height and wiped his sweat with a towel while looking at himself in the mirror. Hmm, I have a muscular figure, nice crotch, perfect *ss, prominent chest muscles, slim waist and strong arms. If I were a woman, I would definitely can't wait to sleep with me, but why doesn't Sophia like me? He flexed his biceps and six packs in front of the mirror. I'm just too perfect!

Quietly placing the towel over his shoulder, he pushed the door open and went out.

Harry asked, "Old man, where are you going? Didn't we agree to go to the hunting ground to hunt for some wild animals later?"

Michael had walked far away. "I'm going to look for my wife to make love to her."

Harry replied, "Tsk, choosing a girl over his buddy!"

After he finished training his muscles, he took a towel to wipe his sweat and scrolled on his Twitter timeline. The selfie that he took in front of the mirror earlier rapidly made headlines as it was being admired by a large number of fans. He put down his phone and took Daniel's newspaper to read. "Let me see what is stated in this thing."

Harry and Michael had been working in the entertainment industry for over ten years now. As people who were excluded from the upper-class society, the entertainment industry was certainly a good place for them.

In the past ten years, they had acted in quite a number of films. They had become famous together and even won the best actor awards together. They were once the golden partners and now, the couple who was loved by everyone. From being 'brothers' in the past to the 'Winston's couple' now—where both names were given by their fans—their fans were getting wilder.

For unknown reasons, a photo that was taken when they went to the Netherlands for business half a year ago had made the headlines. As the Netherlands was a special country where gay couples could get married, their trip there was naturally given another meaning.

After reading the news, Harry was furious, "F*ck! What the heck is this? Can't this bunch of fans and media do something more proper? I'm straight! I'm a heterosexual man!"

Upon hearing that, Daniel, who was calmly drinking tea, put down his tea cup and said, "Be open-minded. At least you are on the top. You are on the top and fancied by everyone!"