

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 636

Although Richard had received a sum of money from Natasha, it was not enough to develop games. So, he had embezzled a sum of money from Harper Group using Mr. Harper's name, planning to make money from the game and reimburse the money he took, but...

Who let the cat out of the bag?

Before this, Mr. Harper still had some prestige among the Harper Group. If word got out, then the Harper Family was done for!

Richard immediately rushed to Harper Group, only to find Mr. Harper had been driven out of the company and was currently packing up his belongings.

Dumbfounded, Richard realized that Mr. Harper had been fired!

Generally speaking, it would not be any problem if the money was reimbursed. So, why was Mr. Harper being driven out of Harper Group?

"Father, what's going on?" Richard hurriedly asked.

Glaring at Richard, Mr. Harper was furious and he was reluctant to speak to Richard. He took his belongings and got into the car before the driver sped off quickly.

Watching the car speeding off, Richard felt ashamed. Suddenly, a honeyed voice came from behind. "Father was just fired, so he's not in a good mood. Let him go."

Upon hearing that voice, Richard instantly felt his stomach twist. Turning around, he saw Xyla walking down the steps.

Today, Xyla was dressed as enchanting and sexy as ever. She wore a dress with a plunging neckline, exposing her pale skin. Walking by her sides were her beautiful male assistant and secretary.

As she approached him, she wrinkled her nose and furrowed her eyebrows. "I heard your company was splashed with feces. How disgusting!" she covered her nose and said pitifully, but her eyes were full of mockery.

Although Richard had changed, the smell still lingered on him. Coldly, he stared at her as he gritted his teeth. "You b*tch! You're the one who drove my father away!"

Unsatisfied, Xyla snapped, "How could you say that? Your father embezzled public funds. They were going to turn him over to the court, and I was the one that changed their minds. I saved your family! How could you blame me?"

Upon hearing that, Richard remained silent while he trembled with rage. His handsome face turned pale, but he did not say anything in the end. He felt pitiful that he was being suppressed by a woman!

In her stilettos, Xyla walked away with her handsome young assistant and secretary. They even deliberately avoided walking past Richard as they left.

Turning around abruptly, Richard coldly uttered, "Sophia told you."

It was a statement rather than a question.

There was no possibility that so many things could happen in one day. The only possibility was that Sophia had found out about the embezzlement and told Xyla. Then, Xyla had taken the opportunity to cause trouble and drive Mr. Harper out of Harper Group so she could dominate the company!

Without saying anything, Xyla turned around and mysteriously chuckled. "That's because you didn't want to share!"

So, it was Sophia! It was the both of them! He thought.

At that moment, the assistant respectfully opened the car door for Xyla. With one hand on the car door, she turned around abruptly and enchantingly before speaking in a relaxed and ordinary tone, "You should go home. Mother and Father are having a divorce. Mother is trying to claim half the shares Father owns, as well as the house and property."

Divorce?

How did this happen? Richard was confused.

Recently, Richard had been busy working at the office, so he rarely went home. Naturally, he was not aware of this!

Upon hearing the news, he immediately called Mrs. Harper. As soon as the call was connected, Mrs. Harper could be heard crying awfully as she yelled like a mad woman, "Your father had an affair with that b*tch Xyla! Now, she's pregnant with your father's child, and he plans to keep it! Your father... That animal wants to give all his shares to that b*tch! I want a divorce! If he doesn't give me half the shares, I will expose the nasty things they did! I don't care about the Harper Family anymore! Don't come looking for me in the future because you're not my son anymore! You Harpers are all trash!"

Slam!

Mrs. Harper hung up the phone, and she could not be reached again.

At once, Richard burst into tears. Watching the car Xyla left in, he was filled with hatred!

At that moment, Raytheon Tech was calling him again and again, but he was afraid to pick up. Squatting by the side of the road, he cried like a helpless child.

How could it be?

In a day's time, both Mr. and Mrs. Harper did not want anything to do with him. Once again, he had messed everything up and seemed to be abandoned by the whole world!

On the other hand, Sophia had been receiving good news. Raytheon Tech had been attacked by big shots to the point that they could neither advance nor retreat, and many of them had joined forces to try and block Raytheon's plagiarized games.

Also, there was news that they had lost a large number of employees and were unable to operate smoothly. Not only that, Raytheon was also being investigated for tax evasion and bribery. They were being pressured by so much negative news that they did not have the capability to cause any more trouble.

Meanwhile, Sophia's PR team began to work hard to turn the page for their game.

The incident of confidentiality breach was already filed for investigation, and the authorities had come forward and said that although it would be a lot of trouble to get back the copyright, it would at least prove who was the real developer of the game. Getting back the copyright was only a matter of time.

Raytheon had been involved in infringement for many years and now that they were in hot water, they had no time to come for Sophia.

Even if they managed to relaunch their games after this incident died down, everyone would have already stopped supporting them.

In the end, Sophia and her team had won the battle. Not only were they victorious, but their game had also achieved unprecedented results. On top of that, they also got a group of experienced online game specialists to join their team. Their company had grown stronger, while their team had become more professional.

Of course, Sophia knew who had caused all these troubles, and she knew that person would never let them go. As such, she could not be waiting for the other party to take action. Soon.

Sophia took her phone out and keyed in a phone number, but she hesitated to press the dial button. She stared at her phone for a moment more before putting it down.

She then changed her mind again and picked her phone up to log into Messenger. She clicked into the conversation with 'Imported Young Man' and began typing, but she deleted it. She did this for a few more times and in the end, thousands of words turned into only two words—"thank you".

If it weren't for Linus, things would not have gone so smoothly. Linus was the one who had caught the culprit who escaped overseas and persuaded the big bosses to initiate rights protection against Raytheon Tech. Sophia was grateful to him as he could have refused to help her.

Linus responded within seconds as if he had been waiting for her text.

'No worries. It was nothing.'

After the short conversation, Sophia put her phone away.