

Sir, You Don't Know Your Wife Chapter 66

However, Janet kept her head lowered as she continued to write her answers, as if she didn't know that someone stood beside her.

"Quickly answer. I'm asking you." Mr. Cooper raised his voice as his veins started bulging in anger.

At the same time, Gordon couldn't bear to watch, so he pushed Mr. Cooper's arm. "Sir, we are still in a test, so please don't talk."

"I..." Mr. Cooper nodded his head angrily. "I see. Both of you are from the same school. Let's see what kind of a result you will get!"

Then, she raised her eyes and gave him a cold glare. "How can we not get a good result from such an easy test?"

"Are you saying that this test is easy?" He was startled for a moment before smiling furiously. "Huh. I bet that you didn't clearly read the questions. This year's test is the most difficult one for the past five years. The purpose is to remove the weak students like you! It amazes me that you can even call it easy. Where is your shame?"

She let out a cold grunt before lowering her head to continue with her test.

"Let's see what nonsensical answers you can make up!" Mr. Cooper was absolutely furious, so he returned to his seat and took a sip of water to calm himself down.

After 30 minutes, Janet placed the test paper on the right corner of her desk. Mr. Cooper went to her and immediately saw the paper.

In the paper, there weren't any answers missing as every question was answered.

I guess she simply filled in the answers.

He couldn't believe that anyone could finish answering such a high level test in a few minutes.

Starting from the first question, his eyes slowly perused the whole paper. She has the first question right, and the second, and the third, and the fourth... Why is it all correct?

Upon looking further down, he realized that she had answered all questions correctly!

Instantly, he was rendered speechless as he stared at her in shock.

If she didn't know about the correct answers in advance, then she is a genius. But the questions for the competition are all kept tightly sealed, so it's impossible for anyone to know the answers in advance.

Then, he had a look at the name written on the paper.

'Janet Jackson, Star High School.'

In shock, he stared at the test paper in his hands.

Meanwhile, Emily was seated in front and answering the questions, but she still glanced at Janet's direction from time to time. Seeing the invigilator constantly standing next to Janet, Emily knew that she wasn't able to answer the questions. After all, even she felt strenuous when answering these questions, so she felt much better after realizing that Janet didn't know how to answer it.

The test finished at 10.10AM, but Janet woke up from her nap at 9.15AM.

In the meantime, Mr. Cooper still struggled on the last question. Even I find it hard to answer this question, so how could the young lady answer it in such a short amount of time?

She looked at him, asking, "Sir, can I leave?"

"Huh?" Mr. Cooper was unable to respond to her and only nodded after a few seconds. "You can leave!"

He had placed all of his attention on the test paper, so he didn't have the time to pay attention to her.

Upon seeing how startled Mr. Cooper looked, the other invigilator also came onstage and was also taken aback when he saw the test paper that was filled with answers. "Is this the girl's test paper?" he asked silently.

"Yes," Mr. Cooper nodded and sighed. "She has answered correctly. I'm still struggling on the last question, but if I'm not mistaken, this will be a full score."

"A full score?"

The invigilator took a cold, deep breath while straightening his body. He held his glasses to have a clearer look at the paper.

His pupils narrowed as he stared at the paper, as if he wanted to burn a hole through it. "T-This..." He had already started to stutter because he couldn't find the words to describe what he saw. Both his hands trembled as he couldn't believe he saw. "She... is a genius!"