

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3846

Everyone was taken to the golden cage. Don Albert tore off the black cloth bags on their heads one by one. Seeing more than a dozen men with different skin colors, he said coldly: "Since you are all agents, you should come. I'm proficient in Chinese. I will introduce myself to you, my name is Don Albert and Aurous Hill ! In this three-acre land, I have never been afraid of anyone except Master Wade. You guys come here, just It is equivalent to a dog raised by me, and you must obey my arrangements obediently, otherwise, i have a way to make your life worse than death!"

Seeing that they were in front of a huge iron cage, more than a dozen agents suddenly became nervous.

One of them blurted out: "We demand humanitarian treatment!"

When Don Albert went up, he slapped his face severely, and spitting, "F*ck you, you F*cking came to our site to be a thief, wanting to F*cking steal our things, and still having the face to look for him. You wants to treat humanely?! I will left you a dog for the sake of you more or less a bird in the future. If you don't kneel down, thank you Master Wade for sparing your dog's life. toss this egg?"

After that, Don Albert immediately said to his men: "Go, let the welder follow the iron cover we made for the Tibetan mastiff, and also weld him a hood on the spot, and lock his pig head inside the cover. Three God forbid him to eat! If you dare to beep more, just sew his dog's mouth to me!"

Don Albert's fierceness immediately caused these well-trained agents to feel a little chill in their backs.

So everyone shut their mouths wisely, and anxiously waited for Don Albert's downfall.

In fact, they know very well in their hearts that their own act of sneaking into Jiu Xuan Pharmaceutical to steal core secrets is illegal. In addition to their special identity, they will not be recognized by the West if something goes wrong, so now they can only be slaughtered by others, and at the same time hope Come back to your own country to rescue yourself.

Soon, Don Albert's welder welded a mask to the hapless man with thin steel bars, and this thing put a cover on his head, unbeknownst to him, he thought it was an imitation of a fencer.

Don Albert directly locked the hood with an extremely ordinary three-ring lock, and said coldly to the person: "You will listen to me. If you dare to open this hood by yourself, I will have someone weld an iron on site. Coffin, weld you in! Do you understand?"

When the man heard this, he humbly said: "I understand, I understand!"

Don Albert coldly instructed the younger brother around him: "Take off their clothes and leave them a pair of pants for each of them, and then put them all in a cage!"

Several subordinates immediately took off the clothes of the group, cut off the nylon ties on their hands one by one, and pushed them into the cage.

Due to the soldiers in the Wanlong Temple standing next to them, none of these agents dared to resist, so they could only get into the cage honestly.

As soon as they entered the cage, the group felt desperate.

This cage is invaluable to humans. Thirty millimeters of rebar is cross welded, leaving only a square gap of ten centimeters on each side. It is so empty that it can stretch out the arms at most. Such a strong cage is almost non-existent. The possibility of brute force cracking.

After all these people were stuffed into cages one by one, all their hopes were pinned on this iron gate.

Most of these people are masters of unlocking. As long as it is a lock with a normal mechanical structure, they don't have much difficulty in their eyes. As long as the time is right, they will have a chance to escape by quietly opening the lock.

However, when they were dreaming about how to crack the door of the cell, they saw a few of Don Albert's men running over, dragging the power cord and electric welding machine, and squatting at the door of the cell, crackling against the iron door.

For a time, the flames of electric welding blazed all over.

The faces of this group of people were instantly ashen, and their hearts were desperate.

The iron gate is welded to death, then if they want to escape from here, there is almost no possibility other than to chop themselves up first!
