In Love, Never Say Never Chapter 1013

"There's blood! She's bleeding!" An ear-piercing scream sounded from a side while my head was pounding. My baby...

A man laughed. "How thrilling! I never thought I'll get to toy with a pregnant woman. This is so exciting!"

The excruciating pain inflicted upon my body made me feel suffocated and I passed out, feeling weak.

Death would always come unannounced. In midst of my coma, I dreamt of a lot of things and met many people. The darkness was endless and I couldn't find my path. All I could hear were people's voices around me, but I couldn't escape from the world I was trapped in.

Finally, I regained my consciousness. Opening my eyes, my vision was blurry as my surroundings were bright. I blinked my eyes and figured out I was in the hospital later on. I tried to glance around, but as soon as I moved, immense pain crept up my body and it felt like my body had fallen apart.

Hiss. I couldn't hold back my squeals, as it was too painful.

Immediately after, I heard rushed footsteps approaching, while someone was shouting, "She's awake! Quick! Call the doctor." The voice was from a stranger.

After getting used to the surroundings, I snapped out of my daze and finally recognized the girl who walked into the room. She was Ann.

When the girl saw me, her eyes were red. "You're finally awake... Finally."

I opened my mouth to express my thoughts, but I only felt pain in my throat. Soon after, a group of people came in. They were Cameron, Zachary, and Joseph. I heaved a sigh of relief when I noticed Ashton wasn't there. Hearing what Ann said, I initially thought I had been in a coma for long.

Cameron's eyes were swollen from crying, and she wore a pain-etched expression looking at me. I reached out to tug on the hem of her shirt and shook my head, assuring her.

Realization dawned on me suddenly, and I thought of my baby. I touched my lower abdomen gently and felt pain spiraling from within. Unsure of what happened to my baby, I looked at the people standing beside me, and asked, "Is my baby... okay?"

Everyone had different reactions, but none of them looked at me in the eyes. Cameron started crying with muffled sobs. Zachary sighed. Ann lowered her head and stayed silent while guilt and sorry were written all over Joseph's face. I was stunned for a moment, but I knew what they meant. My baby's gone.

As the bitter truth sank in, pain washed over my heart like waves of a tsunami. My body started trembling as I felt suffocated. I pursed my lips and tried to hold back my screams, but it only made me look contorted.

Tears rolled down Cameron's cheeks vigorously as she hurriedly took my hands in hers. "She heaved a sigh and pleaded, "My dear, don't be like this, please. Your body hasn't recovered yet, so don't do this to yourself. You'll get better. Please, I beg you. Don't hurt yourself."

My body reacted to the sorrow on its own, so I couldn't control it. I clenched my fists tightly, and my head was throbbing in pain as if it was about to explode.

Overwhelmed by grief, I heard someone screaming, "She's biting her tongue. Quick! Stop her!"

I didn't even notice I was biting my tongue. I couldn't even feel my body. It was just pain all over.

Joseph called the doctor immediately, and a few doctors rushed into the room. When they saw the situation, they panicked. "Hurry! Give her some tranquilizer."

Right when the doctors were busy injecting the tranquilizer, a loud bang could be heard from the entrance and the door was swept open. A figure dashed to me, pushing Cameron and Zachary aside before taking me into his arms. His voice sounded hoarse and low. "Don't be afraid. I'm here. I'm with you."

It was Ashton. The pain in my head started dissipating as I gazed at him in a daze. It seemed he had a lot of work in Moranta, given how he seemed to have lost weight.

Perhaps it was because of the tranquilizer that I was getting tired. I wanted to look at the man I had longed for, so I tried to keep my eyes open, but I fell asleep.

The days I was consumed by grief felt like forever to me, but I made peace with it and days went by quickly. It was during this period of recovering from sorrow that I realized nothing lasted forever, and we would lose the things we held dear no matter what. There was an old saying that went, if we could bear losing everything, we wouldn't have any regrets in this life.

The saying was true. After being discharged from the hospital, I looked at the bright sun in A City and started accepting everything calmly.

Ashton parked the car and looked at me. "What would you like to eat? Let's eat something before going back."

I nodded and thought for a while before answering, "Seafood!"

The man furrowed his brows slightly, but nodded soon after.

In the seafood restaurant, I went pale as I stared at the water tanks. Ashton looked at me in concern and asked, "Should we eat something else?"

I shook my head and insisted, "No need. It's great here." Staring at the sea creatures swimming and crawling in the tanks, I turned to Ashton and asked, "Do they serve live food?"

In Love, Never Say Never Chapter 1014

Ashton frowned at my question before giving in and nodded. He led me to a table and ordered some live food.

When the food was served, I looked at the fish and crabs on the table and turned to the waiter. "Can you get me a sharp knife and a spoon?"

The waiter looked at me with an odd expression and nodded before giving me what I wanted. I made sure the crab stayed in place before tearing off its legs and shell. Using the knife and spoon, I dug out the flesh bit by bit. The flesh of hairy crabs wasn't that delicious, but it tasted alright.

To enjoy dissecting living creatures was rather extreme. However, Ashton didn't stop me from torturing the sea creatures. Instead, he just watched as I continued eating my meal.

After a while, I grew tired and placed my cutlery down. I looked at Ashton and said, "Back then, I've always thought of sending the people I hate to prison to make them suffer for their sins. Now that I think about it, sending them to prison isn't enough."

Ashton looked at me and asked after a while. "What do you want to do?"

I pursed my lips. "Do you still have him locked up?"

"Yes." The man nodded, and I was truly delighted when I heard his answer.

Smiling faintly, I said, "Ashton, you'll let me do as I please, right?"

He pursed his lips and kept quiet while I smiled and didn't ask him again.

Then, he got up and said, "Come. Let's meet that person."

Ashton drove me back to the villa in the suburbs. After he stopped the car, Joseph came out from the villa and looked at me with guilt written over his face. "Mrs. Fuller, how are you feeling?"

I smiled faintly and nodded. "I'm feeling great. Is he inside?"

Joseph hummed a reply before leading me and Ashton into the villa.

Dillan wasn't a big shot. He only got rich because of his family assets as his family ran coal mines. Later on, his sister married a civil servant. That person was Derek. All these years, he used money to gain his status and power, and since things like this weren't uncommon, so everyone got used to it.

Derek invested a sizable amount of money into building his status, so he got promoted and had a rather high income. While Dillan, a good-for-nothing, could only rely on Derek to live a high life in A City. Just because the man had money, he could carry out his absurd hobby and humiliated many girls.

The man was tied to a chair with his head hung low and his face was beaten to a pulp as blood dripped onto the floor. I clicked my tongue and looked at him. "Dillan, what a coincidence!"

He lifted his head and looked at me. Squinting his eyes, he tried to focus his vision and saw that it was me. Immediately after, he widened his eyes in surprise and pleaded, "I'm sorry. I didn't know you're Mr. Fuller's wife. I'm really sorry. Please spare me, I didn't do it on purpose. If you let me go, I'll give you any amount you want. Please, I beg you."

I scoffed at his disgusting behavior. Looking at the grey sky outside, I smirked and looked at Joseph. "Mr. Campbell, is there an open swimming pool here?"

The man nodded and glanced at Ashton's sullen face. "There is. It's at the rear house."

"That's great!" I spoke as I watched Dillan. "Since we don't see each other that often, let's play together."

With that, I headed toward the rear house. Ashton glanced at me as if he knew what I was going to do. "Keep him alive."

I raised a brow at him and headed toward the swimming pool. I found myself a comfortable place beside the pool to sit and watched as Dillan was dragged toward me. "Dillan, you must like to play with water. How about having fun in the pool now?"

Dillan looked at me in wariness. "What are you planning to do?"

I shrugged. "What can I do? I'm just a woman." With that, I glanced at the two men behind him. They received the signal and dragged him toward the pool before pushing him into the water.

Watching him letting out muffled screams in the water, I was emotionless. He was tied up, so he couldn't save himself from drowning. At some point of seeing him struggling in the water helplessly, I started laughing when I saw his pathetic face.

After a while of struggling in the water, Dillan started sinking to the bottom. Upon seeing this, Joseph advised, "Mrs. Fuller, he's going to die."

I smirked and folded my arms as I looked down at the man in the water. "Yeah, take him out of the water and get a doctor here. After he's awake, throw him into the water again. Make sure he remembers the scent of fluorine and the feeling of being suffocated."

Joseph nodded and gestured for the men to pull him out of the water.

After watching the show, I lost all interest to continue. When I got up, Ashton came to me and blocked my path. "Where are you going?"

I was rather exhausted. "I'll rest here for a bit. Dillan will be awake after a while, so I'm planning to toy with him later."
