

Chapter 1348

Holden was dumbfounded. Then he looked at Sabrina with an expression of utter love and devotion. "She and her mother are trying to trick you! Why would you be so stupid and come here?"

Sabrina's eyes turned red with unshed tears. "Go! Go now!"

Holden: "..."

"Leave!" Sabrina roared with fury.

She saw the two security guards holding the lock and was about to lock the main doors, so she dashed to them as fast as she could and pushed the both of them down to the ground.

Then she shouted in Holden's direction. "You! Payne! Leave, right now! Now!!"

Payne was not an idiot. He did not linger and, instead, he turned and ran. When he reached the entrance, he turned back suddenly and tugged Sabrina into his arms. He planted a kiss on the crown of her head, then bolted out of the doors.

Sabrina: "..."

Within a minute, police patrol cars arrived at the hotel. The crowd which had been at the hotel. The crowd which had been hiding stood up immediately.

Lori stood up too, still looking flustered. Beside her, the simp who had been badly beaten by Holden lay on the floor.

Now that Holden was gone, Lori was not afraid anymore. She pointed at Sabrina and shouted, "You're his accomplice!"

In a fit of rage, Sean questioned Sabrina too. "What... What's going on? It's not enough that one of your lovers came, but another one had to appear too?"

"Sean." By then, Sabrina had regained her composure.

She looked at Lori and the half-dead man on the floor. "Didn't you see? Lori was the one who summoned this man."

"No!" Lori refuted immediately. "If I was the one who summoned him. He wouldn't protect me at the crucial point in time, so doing so would only harm me! Sabrina, you're a master at manipulating men. I underestimated you."

Sabrina replied, "How so?"

"Two men! Two men appeared at the same time. Even though they beat each other up so badly, they're both loyal to you. You're so badly, they're both loyal to you. You're capable," she said sarcastically.

Hearing Lori's words, Sean's body trembled with anger.

At that moment, police officers swarmed into the hotel.

"What happened? Someone reported a murderer?" the police asked the moment they entered the doors.

"It's her! She's the murderer's accomplice!" Jennie immediately pointed at Sabrina.

The police officers fixed their stares on Sabrina.

"You want to take my daughter away? Over my dead body!" Seeing her daughter surrounded by danger on all sides, Gloria immediately stepped in front of her daughter.

One of the officers asked Sabrina, "What actually happened here? Are you an accomplice?"

Sabrina replied, "No!"

"Ha!" Jennie scoffed. "The CCTV recording will tell us whether you're his accomplice or not. I'm sure a fancy hotel like this would have CCTV cameras installed, right?"

At that moment, the manager of the hotel answered instantly, "Yes, we do have CCTV cameras installed."

The manager just wanted the issue to be resolved as soon as possible. Otherwise, the hotel's business and customer flow would be greatly affected. The manager disliked Sabrina in particular.

This woman asked for a high-end private room the moment she stepped foot into the hotel. Not only that, she even asked for a private that was already in use. It was obvious that she came here to cause trouble! As he expected, the moment she left the room, chaos ensued.

The manager led the police officers to the security room as he spoke. When they replayed the video, they realized, for the period of time when the black-suited man walked in all the way till the time he left, the video was corrupted.

Which meant, there was no video recording of the black-suited man beating up Steve.

Even though there was no video evidence, Steve lay on the ground in a pool of his own blood. That showed that the black-suited man was here, and he did indeed beat up Steve.