

Chapter 1358

Hearing Sabrina shoot the question back at him, Nigel was stunned too. "It's... I was not you? Then was it my cousin? But I don't think my cousin would do something like this. Even if he wanted to transfer a million dollars to Minerva, he would ask Kingston to send the money directly to her, or give it to me."

Sabrina: "..."

She was sure Sebastian did not transfer the money to Minerva. Suddenly, she remembered Holden telling her more than an hour ago when he left that he was going to visit his niece. Back then, Sabrina thought he was referring to Aino. Now she understood. Holden's family name was Payne. So was Minerva's. Minerva was Harry Payne's daughter; then, that meant she was Holden's niece, right? ①

She said to Nigel over the phone, "It's not your cousin or me either. I think... I know who it is."

On the other end, Nigel was quiet for a long time before asking, "Is it... Holden Payne?"

Sabrina: "..."

Nigel answered, "Rumors are flying that Holden has returned to South City, and he threatened Uncle Sean and Aunt Rose multiple times, causing trouble in the city. Every time after he was done, he would warn Uncle Sean and Aunt Rose not to harm you."

Sabrina said, "Master Nigel, it's not what you think."

Nigel said agitatedly, "Sabrina, even though others might not know why Holden came to South City, but I do! He loves you, am I right?"

Sabrina replied, "This has nothing to do with you!"

"You're right! This has nothing to do with me, but it has everything to do with you! Did he cause a big disruption to your life, and if he did, just tell me! I'll freaking kill him! Does he think he's so ruthless? Bring it on! Let me tell you right ruthless? Bring it on! Let me tell you right now! I can be more ruthless and crueler than him! I almost died in the past, so I'm not afraid of death! But anyone who dares ruin your happiness, I'll stab him until he bleeds out on the ground!"

Sabrina: "..."

She never expected that, even till this day, Nigel still loved her so deeply. Suddenly, she laughed in despair. It seemed that, in all romantic relationships, the one that you never had would be the only one that lasted forever, the one that you treasure the most. 1

Thinking back to the past, if she did not risk her life to save Nigel despite his continuous ruthless bullying of her, would he still love her so deeply right now? Perhaps not. Even if she accepted his showers of love because she saved him, maybe now, seven years later, their love for each other would have been depleted. Even so, he would still be one of the most eligible bachelors in South City, but what about her?

This was the relationship inequality that existed between them. Because people like him were rich and influential. They were born with golden spoons in their mouths, so one would be lucky that they chose to bestow anyone like her with their love. That was why a truly equal and balanced relationship should be like the one between Sean and Rose. Both of them worked hard together, faced the outside world together, even if they deceived others with despicable means and methods; they agreed on it together. ①

She finally understood why Rose was the one Sean chose to spend his whole life with and not Grace. After realizing this most important point, she calmed down a lot. She said to Nigel indifferently, “Master Nigel, if you really see me as a friend, please don’t intervene in my affairs; it will only worsen the situation. Just like Holden now.”

Nigel: “...”

A long while later, he finally said, “Sabbie, to be honest, I don’t have any more misplaced feelings for you. I just want you to have a good life. I don’t want anyone to ruin your life.”

"I know. Thank you. You are a good man, Mister Nigel. I hope you'll live a safe and peaceful life, and that you can find a good girl and get married quickly, and remember to be nice to her for the rest of your life," Sabrina said.
