

Chapter 1338

Sabrina was speechless.

After pausing for a moment, she asked Lori, "How did you get my number?"

Lori's tone was calm and had a hint of coldness. "My daughter is in the same kindergarten as you, and my cousin is your cousin. Furthermore, your number isn't really a big secret. Before, Selene knew it, then Emma. Oh, of course, a lot of the rich heirs in South City know.

"So you see, finding your phone number is even easier than finding a broken shoe in the garbage."

Sabrina remained calm. "Lori, it seems like you've prepared something for this call today."

Lori immediately denied it. "No no no, I don't have anything prepared. I just need a sincere heart. Not only do I have that, I even have Uncle Ford's support. I feel like that alone is enough."

After pausing, she said, "Also, if a person is really clean, that person wouldn't need to prepare anything and the other party would naturally falter, don't you think so?"

Sabrina agreed. "You're right. If I'm not

Sabrina agreed. "You're right. If I'm not mistaken, you're at my husband's company? Furthermore, you're probably not afraid of me coming over to catch you in the act. Not only that, you're probably hoping that I cause a scene at the company right now?"

Sabrina was very calm.

On the other end, Lori's tone was very calm as well. "Sabrina, I knew you would guess that. Do you think I'm as dumb of a woman as you are? That's right, I already embarrassed myself at your husband's company the last time. If I already know that that method is wrong, do you think I would do it again?"

Sabrina was speechless.

Her heart thumped.

Suddenly, she felt like Lori was not so easy to handle.

Lori's mother, Jennie, had been one of the noble ladies in South City and Kidon City in her youth. Even though she was not actually a Shaw in name, and merely a relative, but the resources she had, as well as her education and experiences, were far greater than anyone else.

After that, she went overseas.

After so many years, no one knew what the mother and daughter pair had gone through overseas.

Just Lori alone had graduated at the top of her class at a prestigious academy overseas, so Sabrina could guess that the woman would not be so easy to deal with.

Sabrina's tone unnaturally chilled. "Please tell me. Where are you right now?"

"Me? Are you asking me, or your husband?" Lori said.

Sabrina said, "Isn't that the same thing?"

"Haha!" Lori laughed. "Even though you've been in jail before and you haven't even graduated from university, you're actually quite smart."

After that, she said, "I'm currently at the Grand Sage International Hotel. As for your husband, why don't you guess? You can even call your husband and ask about it."

Sabrina said, "I know."

Asking her to call Sebastian?

Was she dumb?

How could she call Sebastian?

However, after hanging up, Sabrina felt a revolted feeling in her heart.

She felt like something was wrong.

She picked up her phone and dialed a number, but before the call went through, she gave up.

What was she going to ask Sebastian?

Are you at the company?

Who are you with?

Are you at a meeting or are you eating?

She could not ask that.

Because, after coming back with Sebastian, Sabrina had never asked about Sebastian's whereabouts and actions. She had unconditional trust in him, and she had never called Sebastian out of any suspicions.

Was she supposed to ask him if he was with Lori?

No!

She could not ask something like that.

If she asked, it meant that she already believed it in her heart, that she already started to be worried, that her heart had already faltered.
