Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1351 - 1355

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1351

All the messages inside Lily's phone were from Malcolm.

"What's the situation with her and Joshua? I need an update."

"Find an opportunity to force her back."

"Have you earned Joshua's trust? Why are you not replying?"

"If needed, proceed with Plan S."

As soon as she saw the messages, Luna felt as if her heart was squeezed by an invisible hand. It made her uncomfortable.

It was apparent that this phone was used specifically for Lily and Malcolm to communicate. The messages started the moment Lily arrived in Banyan City, and it had not stopped since.

When Luna first started reading the texts, she thought that Malcolm's intentions for contacting Lily were out of genuine concern.

However, later on...

The information that Malcolm asked from Lily became more and more detailed. From the beginning, it was about Luna's working hours and the amount of time she saw Joshua. Later on, he wanted to know the amount of time she spent with her children and Joshua.

On top of that...

He even inquired how many times Luna went into Joshua's room to conceive a baby to save Nigel, as well as the duration that she was in there, what time she left the following morning, and how she was doing when she left...

All the details were recorded and given accurately...

Malcolm used Lily for all-rounded surveillance on Luna. There were instances when the details that Malcolm wanted were too much and too intimate that Lily refused to give him. However, Malcolm would always bring up Lily's brother, who was staying with the Quinn family. Therefore, Lily would always eventually give in, follow the instructions, and report every detail of Luna's life.

Nevertheless, it had been two weeks since the last time Lily reported to Malcolm.

In the final report, Lily mentioned the Landry family. (Sir, the incident of Granny Lynch being poisoned is related to the Landry family. Since you're so close to them, you could actually help, but why...]

Malcolm replied calmly, (All I care about is Luna. Whatever is going on in the Lynch family has nothing to do with me.)

When Luna read this message, it made her uneasy, not because Malcolm refused to help the Lynch family. After all, there was nothing wrong with what he said. All he cared about was her. It was fair for Malcolm to show no interest in the Lynch family.

What made Luna uncomfortable was...

Malcolm did not say anything to rebuke when Lily mentioned he was very close with the Landry family. This meant he indeed was very close with them.

Moreover, Luna had been best friends with Malcolm for the past six years, yet she had never heard him mention anything about the Landry family or what they were up to.

On the other hand, Lily, a maid in the Quinn family they had rescued, could easily bring up the relationship between Malcolm and the Landry family.

On top of that, in the conversation, Malcolm mentioned that there were ulterior motives for saving Luna and the children...

Luna felt a chill go down her spine. She suddenly realized that she did not know much about Malcolm at all...

Bonnie noticed Luna's expression and knew that something was not right. "What's wrong?" she asked with a frown.

Luna quickly put the phone away and shook her head. "Nothing's wrong."

Luna thought maybe she was just overthinking. Malcolm could be just making conversation.

His rescuing her six years ago was nothing but a coincidence. How could there be other reasons behind it?

In fact, Malcolm ultimately tried his best to help her with the treatment and plastic surgery...and had even got into a dispute with Granny Quinn about her. How could she possibly question him?

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1352

As for the Landry family, Luna thought maybe it was just a coincidence and that Malcolm had never brought them up in front of her.

She should not have suspected him, the man who had saved her life, much less think that he had other intentions for instructing Lily to spy on her. Maybe he just cared too much about her...

Thinking this, Luna let out an exhale and turned off the phone. Then, she got up and asked Bonnie to send her home.

While on the way back to Orchard Manor, Luna took out her phone to check the news in order to keep her mind off her discovery.

The first thing she saw on the news was the fire at Blue Bay Villa the night before.

After that, the news portal showed photos of both Aura and Lily, while the news anchor reported in a calm tone, "According to what we know, the culprit behind this arson was none other than Joshua Lynch's ex-fiancée, Aura Gibson.

“She set this fire out of anger that Joshua had gotten together with other women after their breakup.

Fortunately, apart from a servant named Lily who worked at Blue Bay Villa, no other people were injured...”

As soon as she saw the picture of Lily on her screen, Luna sniffed as tears started to stream down her face.

If it were not for Lily...

Luna could not imagine what kind of chaos would have ensued in the Lynch family.

Lily had told her that she was repaying Luna’s kindness for saving her life in the past, but Luna had never expected to receive repayment for that and simply wished for Lily to have a good life...

Meanwhile, inside Quinn Mansion on the other side of the world.

“What is she trying to do, if not to repay us?”

Granny Quinn smashed a cup onto the ground with a ruthless look in her eyes.

The cup broke into pieces upon contact with the ground, and some of the shattered porcelain stabbed right into the leg of the man kneeling on the floor.

Blood seeped out of the cuts, but the man remained on his knees as though he could not experience pain at all. “She’ll come back; I know her better than anyone.”

“You ‘know’ her? “ Granny Quinn scoffed and swept her cold glance over Malcolm’s face.

“You promised me that she’d return as soon as she saved the child!

“What happened then? She managed to save the child, but she didn’t return!

“Now that the spy you planted by her side is dead, what are you going to use to prove to me that she’ll return?”

Seeing how angry Granny Quinn was, the second son of the Quinn family, Hunter, immediately approached her and comforted her, saying, "Don't get too mad, Granny. You'll put your body under too much stress."

"Hmph! " Granny glared at Malcolm, who was still kneeling on the ground. "If I had known you'd be such a wimp, I wouldn't have sent you to Banyan City to find her!

"This woman was supposed to be our tool to control and threaten the Landry family! "

Granny Quinn grew more and more outraged as she said this, and she smashed another cup onto the ground in anger. "You told me that letting her undergo plastic surgery would prevent the Landry family from recognizing her and that she could become a useful chess piece in our game...but now?

She's now Joshua Lynch's girlfriend!

"Is this your magnificent plan to regain the Quinn family's power? Why don't you say it's a scheme to make the Lynch and Landry families work out their conflicts and come after us?!"

This time, the cup landed on Malcolm's face so hard that the impact tipped his face to the other side.

Despite this, he still kneeled on the ground calmly, without a single trace of emotion on his face. "Please don't get upset, Granny. My plan hasn't failed yet. "Luna will return to my side. Don't worry."

Granny Lynch's memorial went on for three days. The whole city mourned her death.

On the day of the burial, the sky started to pour.

Luna held an umbrella next to Joshua as she stared quietly at Granny Lynch's tombstone.

Next to Granny Lynch's tombstone were two smaller ones for Luna's stillborn children.

The most recent child had been premature, and on top of that, so much had happened during that time that the tiny fetus passed away too.

Joshua put both the unborn children in the same plot and swore to always look after Luna so that she would never have to endure this pain again.

Right next to the children's tombstones was Lily's.

These few days, while Luna searched through Lily's possessions, she learned that Lily stopped providing any details of her to Malcolm because...Lily's sick brother, who had been living with the Quinn family, had passed away a few weeks ago.

Lily was only 19 years old. After her brother passed, she had no family left.

Joshua pitied this lonely girl, so he had her buried at the Lynch's graveyard as well. After all, if it were not for Lily, the Lynch family would have another tombstone instead.

The rain became heavier, and the wind whipped through the air.

The raindrops carried by the wind dripped onto Luna, and she felt so cold that she shrank herself smaller. Despite that, she still stood there quietly next to Joshua.

Joshua could sense that Luna was cold. Joshua, dressed entirely in black, let out a sigh, took off his coat, and put it on Luna, taking the umbrella from her and saying, "Let's go."

Luna frowned and lifted her head to glance at Joshua. "Don't you want to spend a little more time with Granny Lynch?"

Joshua shook his head. "Granny Lynch is gone. No matter how long I stay here, she'll never come back."

"But..."

Joshua reached out to pull Luna closer. "If you got sick because of standing here with me, Granny Lynch will be angry at me."

Luna could feel the warmth radiating off Joshua's body. She let out a sigh and quietly followed him out of the graveyard and into the car.

The black Masevati dashed through the rain.

Before they reached home, Joshua's phone rang. It was from the hospital.

"Mr. Joshua, the specialists you wanted the hospital to find are here. We have provided all the details to them, and they have gone through them. Young Master Neil's loss of memory isn't incurable. Do you want to come to the hospital if you're available to discuss this further?"

"Sure."

As soon as he hung up, Joshua turned and glanced at Lucas, who was in the driver's seat. "Turn around and take me to the hospital."

They soon arrived at this hospital.

As soon as she got out of the car, Luna caught sight of a flashy red Ferrare parked outside the hospital entrance.

There was only one person in the whole of Banyan City who would drive such a flashy car. It was Bonnie.

Luna got out of the car and texted Bonnie, (Are you not feeling unwell?)

Because of Granny Lynch's memorial, Bonnie had been busy taking care of the three children the last few days. She took such meticulous care of them that it was as though she was their mother instead of Luna.

Luna did not notice anything wrong with Bonnie during this time, so why did she come to the hospital?

It took Bonnie a while to reply to Luna. (I'm fine. I just haven't been sleeping well for the past few days, so I'm here to get some sleeping pills. How do you know I'm at the hospital? Are you at the hospital? Is something wrong?)

Before Luna could reply to her messages, Bonnie had already stormed out of the hospital to find her. She grabbed hold of Luna's hand and asked, "Are you okay? Are you not feeling well because of the miscarriage? Or were you too tired? Are you still having side effects from the medication that Dr. Janet gave you?"

Bonnie asked all the questions so quickly that Luna did not know whether to laugh or cry.

Luna held on to her hand and followed Joshua upstairs, explaining to her along the way that they were there to meet the specialists that wanted to help recover Neil's memories.

As soon as she heard the words, 'recover memory,' Bonnie paused and lowered her head. "Recovering one's memories...is it really a good thing?"

Luna nodded. "At least it will be, for Neil."

After he lost his memories, Neil had always felt like an outsider despite having returned to their side. He no longer dared to joke around with Nellie like before, nor did he nag Nigel to put down his laptop and take care of himself like he used to.

Every time Luna saw how careful Neil became around his brother and sister, she felt her chest tighten and hurt. If it were not for her and Joshua's mistake...this would not have happened.

This time, if the specialists that Joshua found could truly recover Neil's lost memories...

Then even if he could not return to the cheerful, carefree boy he once was, he would not have to keep a distance from his brother and sister anymore.

The glimmer in Bonnie's eyes faded when she heard this. "You're right. Children's memories—even if lost—are always happy ones, so it'll be good to... regain those memories."

Luna pursed her lips slightly when she heard how crestfallen Bonnie sounded.

Luna had been on Bay Bridge, too, the day Aura announced that Bonnie had once given birth. Even though Luna had been trying to comfort Bonnie not to take this shocking news to heart, they all knew that this was not a lie.

Aura would never have lied about this under those circumstances.

On top of that, Bonnie had indeed lost about a year of memory...

Luna clutched Bonnie's hand, and the three of them went upstairs.

A few of the specialists were talking to Theo.

As the person who had been with Neil during his most challenging times, Theo had only one request for the specialists. "If you can't guarantee that his memories will come back, then please don't let him suffer through the process."

Previously, when the specialists had conducted electroshock experiments to help regain subjects' memories, it had indeed succeeded, but the test subjects underwent trauma during this process.

Theo was afraid that not only would Neil be unable to regain his memories, but he would be subjected to trauma as well...

This was too much for a six-year-old child, one who had just experienced psychological trauma of his own, to endure.

"But Mr. Theo..." The leader of the specialist team let out a sigh and lifted his head to stare at Theo. "There will always be risks to undergoing treatment. We can't give up on helping Neil regain his memories simply because of the risks and uncertainties."

Theo immediately furrowed his brows upon hearing this.

He slapped his hand on the tabletop and snapped, “ You’re electrocuting people with amnesia to help them find their lost memories! If this electroshock treatment fails to help him regain his memories, how do you expect a six-year-old child to face the consequences? Can’t you try it out on an adult first before you perform it on a child?”

The specialist was rendered speechless by this. “Mr. Theo, you have to know that there aren’t many people with amnesia in this world, much less those whose memories were wiped off using medication.

“We can’t even find a second person who lost their memories due to medication, so we– “

Theo scoffed. “Then there’s no way I’m allowing this! “

The specialist shot Joshua a somewhat helpless look.

Joshua frowned and contemplated this for a moment, then said, “I agree with Theo.”

Neil had already gone through too much, and he was slowly warming up to his family and healing from his trauma. If they subjected him to more turmoil... not only would it be unhelpful to him, but it would make him feel even worse about himself.

Seeing that Joshua, too, was unsupportive of this experiment, the specialist sighed and said, “Alright, then. We have no other choice.” “What do you mean, you have no other choice?” Bonnie stepped forward with a smile. “You have me.”

Seeing that Bonnie had volunteered herself, Luna’s first reaction was to grab her.

As Bonnie’s friend, Luna knew better than anyone that Bonnie had no intention of regaining her lost memories at all.

Otherwise, according to Bonnie's wealth and power, she would definitely have sought out a doctor to help her regain her lost memories. It had been so many years since she lost her memories, yet she did not do so.

Therefore, it was clear she did not want to relive those memories at all because she knew they were not good ones.

All of a sudden, Bonnie was willing to step forward as a volunteer to help Luna and Neil.

Luna grabbed hold of Bonnie's arm and shook her head. "That's okay, Bonnie."

Even though Luna longed for Neil to regain his memories, she did not need her friends to sacrifice for that.

To her surprise, Bonnie shook Luna's hand off, let out an exhale, and strode toward the specialists. "My situation is very similar to Neil's. Six years ago, my memories were wiped with medication, so I 'm the perfect test subject for your experiment."

The specialists exchanged a glance, then immediately rushed forward to grab hold of Bonnie's hand in delight and started asking about what had happened when she lost her memories.

Even though she was impatient, Bonnie still described the entire process to them. Finally, she glanced at Luna and let out a sigh. "Actually, I've always known that the memories I lost weren't good ones, so I never wanted to regain them at all, but..."

She curled her lips into a small smile. "Ever since Aura mentioned that I gave birth to a child during this time, I've been dreaming of a child, so I must find out what happened during that time."

Truth be told, the reason she had come to the hospital today was to do a test.

According to the results of the test, she had indeed given birth before. As soon as she received the results, Bonnie had started contemplating whether she should regain her memories or not.

At this moment, she had made up her mind.

Therefore, Bonnie ignored Luna and Joshua's objections and immediately signed a consent form for the experiment.

Just as Theo said, the specialists used electrocution to help clear the nerves that the amnesia medication had blocked.

Luna watched through the glass window as Bonnie laid down on a bed and was connected to numerous electrodes on her head.

She appeared to be in so much pain that Luna could not bear to watch anymore. However, even with her back turned, Luna could still hear the cries and yelps coming out of Bonnie.

Joshua pulled Luna into his arms but did not say a word.

Theo heard Bonnie's pained cries and said somewhat guiltily, "If I hadn't secretly tossed away the medication that Aura gave me, I would've been the one lying there, undergoing the experiment in Neil's place."

Luna pursed her lips when she heard this. "Please don't say that, Theo..."

If Theo had lost his memories as well, then he would not have contacted them, and Neil would not have managed to get home so quickly.

Theo lifted his head to stare at Luna. Then, his gaze fell on Joshua's hand, which was on Luna's shoulder.

Seeing that Theo was staring at them, Luna froze, then immediately reached out a hand to shove Joshua's hand away.

Theo caught sight of this series of actions. He let out a weak chuckle and asked, "What are you so nervous about? Do you think that I won't find out that you guys made up if I didn't see his hand on your shoulder?"

Luna's face blushed scarlet. She bit down on her lip and muttered, "I'm sorry, Theo."

She had promised Theo, after all...

“What are you sorry about?” Theo shot her a helpless look. “All’s fair in love and war; I’m glad that the two of you managed to make up.

”Although, I ‘ll be leaving in a few days, as soon as Neil has regained his memories.”
