

Love At First Night Chapter 2

Chapter 2

Through the glass door, Judith could clearly see that Sherly was very proud of what she had done, and the look in her eyes was extremely vicious. “Sherl, when she comes back later, you need to say something nice to calm her down. That idiot, she will listen to whatever we say. She has always been obedient since she was a child. We can’t just raise her for twelve years in vain. We have to go step by step to get rewards from her in the future.” Judith would never expect that her beautiful foster mother, whom she had always admired, would become so ugly in her eyes at this moment. “Mom, the decision that you drove to hit her back then is so good. It not only made her lose her memory but also brought her back to our home to let her make money for us.” Sherly smiled evilly. Her ugly smile with her narrowed eyes was disgusting.

Judith was deeply shocked by this conversation. She breathed vehemently with anger. Her hand holding the door handle shook. She thought that she was an orphan brought back from the orphanage by the Cooper family. Now she knew that it wasn’t true. She wondered if her foster parents took her back because they didn’t want to be in trouble. Listening to their vicious conversation, Judith trembled with shock as she arched her body. She had been obedient in the Cooper family for many years. In order to get her foster mother like her, she had lived according to her foster mother’s preferences and had never been herself. “When I bumped into her, she had already fainted. I thought she was dead, so I threw her into the trunk. I wanted to secretly take her out of the city and bury her, but I didn’t expect that she survived. “I found out that she had lost her memory. I don’t want to be involved with a crime, so your father and I lied and said that she was adopted by us from the orphanage. You can’t let her know this. She was well-dressed back then and seemed to be from a rich family.” Mrs. Cooper raised her head proudly and smiled sarcastically. She thought that it was finally useful to raise Judith as a daughter. Mrs. Cooper's vicious voice echoed in Judith's ears, causing her head to ache badly.

Judith felt her body in extreme pain. She looked at the increasingly bright sky and quickly ran out of the Cooper family's villa. Judith ran all the way. It was still early, so there were very few pedestrians on the road. The morning fog was thick, and the cold came, making Judith's body tremble. Tears blurred her eyes, and she was immersed in grief. The beautiful foster mother she had always respected set her up. Her sister, whom she had always loved and protected, treated her as a tool to make money. Her admirable foster father didn't care about her either.

Judith felt that her world was collapsing, and she was torn apart with despair. Judith was so despondent that she couldn't feel anything else but pain. However, it was at this moment that she ran into the road without knowing it. A dark red sports car was speeding along the road. In a flash, a long braking horn sounded. Judith suddenly realized that she was on the road, and her eyes that were filled contracted. With the sound of a bang, Judith's body flew up and landed in a short distance. She lay motionless on the ground, her face ghastly pale. The red blood spread out slowly from the back of her head.

Her vision gradually blurred, and she vaguely saw a slender figure walking towards her. However, she smiled in despair. She thought that it was good. In this world, there was nothing left for her to cherish. Judith slowly closed her eyes, tears streaming down from the corners of her eyes.
