Chapter 623 No Chance Of Revival

The moment he finished talking, Thomas cast a meaningful glance at Sheldon Zane. It was a cautionary look.

Sheldon felt it, and unlike his usual self, he did not endure in silence. Instead, he retorted, "Words won't suffice. Show us the result! Let's see what concrete measures you can come up with. I hope that the share prices of Dexmed Pharmaceutical will be lower tomorrow."

Henry Colson gave a superficial smile and chimed in, "That's right."

Once Sheldon and Henry had left, Thomas kicked the chair next to him and sent it flying.

An insidious look flashed across Thomas' eyes. "How dare they try to make things difficult for me just because they're members of the board of directors! Bunch of crap! Once this is over, I'll make them pay!"

Cayden, who was standing at the side, could feel the anger coming from Thomas. He did not even dare to make a single sound.

"Cayden, cover this up with either money or other news! I don't care what you do. Just make sure you get this off the trending topics by today!" Thomas glanced at Cayden and continued, "If it isn't accomplished, I'll hold you accountable!"

"Yes, Sir!" Cayden had no other choice but to accept the task.

In the meantime, Natalie was having a video call with Yandel in the study.

Yandel gave her a thumbs-up and praised her, "Boss, you've made an excellent move indeed! Even though I knew we have to go head to head with Dexmed Pharmaceutical, I didn't expect the battle to start in such a manner! I'm sure Thomas will be stunned by your move!"

With a coffee cup in her hand, Natalie said, "I don't want a long battle. A long battle won't do any good for both Dexmed Pharmaceutical and Dream. Even if Dream manages to acquire Dexmed Pharmaceutical by then, it will be useless. Only a swift battle can ensure that Thomas will never be able to make a complete comeback."

After hearing what Natalie said, Yandel's respect for her increased.

In the past, Natalie might have had some issues with the job deployment of Dexmed Pharmaceutical, but her actions did not affect the operations of the company.

Looking at the present situation, everything that had happened by accident back then was proving useful at the current moment.

"Boss, your capability in devising a plot is way too terrifying..."

"Terrifying?" Natalie smiled and said, "I've waited five years for this..."

Looking at Natalie on his screen, Yandel saw the sadness in her eyes and did not know what to say.

Natalie put her cup down and continued, "Looks like it will be a tough battle ahead of us. Thomas will retaliate for sure. But, we mustn't give him the chance to take a breather the moment he falls."

"You mean..."

"There are people who need your protection, and there are those that you need to keep an eye on. Just do your job and be patient. Things will happen as they should," said Natalie serenely.

"I understand."

With that, the video call ended.

Natalie stared at her empty cup, and she did not look too happy.

Thomas was only a puppet. The real mastermind was hiding behind the scenes and watching everything.

Right from the beginning, her target was never just the puppet.

Natalie locked herself up in the study and read books for the entire day. She did not see what was going on on the Internet.

Her eyes were getting tired from her reading when she received a message from Yana.

Dad wants me to send you a message. He wants me to think of a way to get you here for dinner. I have no idea what he is up to! So mysterious! The message was followed by three emojis.

Natalie: I happen to be free tonight. I'll come over then!

Yana: That's wonderful! Looking forward to seeing you!

Chapter 624 More Than Just Dinner

That night at the Weiss residence, Yana was full of smiles when Natalie arrived.

With his arm around Yana's shoulders, Hans teased, "You have no idea how excited Yana is. The moment she heard that you are coming tonight, she told the chef to cook your favorite dishes. Both my son and I don't even get this kind of treatment. If this continues, I will fall out of Yana's favor very soon!"

Yana blushed and glared at Hans. "You talk too much! I like Natalie. Do you have a problem with that?"

"Fine, fine." Hans said indulgently, "You're the boss."

"I'm glad you know that."

Ever since Yana had been cured of her mental issues, she had become more cheerful and smiled more often.

Hans knew that the two ladies had much to talk about, so he excused himself by saying that he needed to help his son with his homework and left.

It was a coincidence that Jason invited Natalie to dinner that night. In reality, Yana was curious about the top-ranking topic on the Internet. It was the scandal of Dexmed Pharmaceutical.

“Were you the one responsible for the top trending story on the Nichols family?”

Natalie nodded calmly. “Yes.”

“This move of yours is too fast and dangerous!” Yana had somehow guessed it, but she was still taken aback when she heard Natalie admitting to it.

Natalie looked up with a glimmer of confidence. “Yana, you have to be quick and vicious if you are plotting against someone. This way, you’ll be able to catch them off-guard.”

Logically speaking, anybody who said such things would annoy others. However, when those words came from Natalie, they had the opposite effect.

This girl is brave and smart at the same time. Even her moves are so swift and decisive. Impressive!

Yana stared at Natalie like an obsessed person. “If I’m a man, you will definitely walk all over me!”

“No way!” Natalie winked at her playfully and said, “If you become a man, Hans will cry till he faints in the washroom!”

“So what if he cries till he faints? It won’t change the fact that I like you!”

“All right then...”

Natalie and Yana went on chatting for a while more.

When Jason and Hannah returned home, they broke into smiles when they saw the two of them chatting away.

“Natalie, you’re here...” Jason looked at her lovingly and continued, “I was afraid that you wouldn’t come if I ask Yana to invite you!”

“Godfather, what’s the special occasion today? Why have you asked me over for dinner?” asked Natalie.

The well-maintained Hannah held Natalie’s hand and said, “Of course it’s something good! That’s why we called you. We’re all having dinner together, but there’s also someone joining us tonight.”

“Who is it?”

“Come in,” called out Jason.

A man dressed in a tan overcoat and gold-framed glasses strolled in.

The handsome man exuded an air of intelligence and nobility.

Jason introduced them, “Natalie, this is Matthew Patterson. Both the Weiss family and the Patterson family have been close friends for as long as we can remember. Most importantly, the Patterson family believes in honor and loyalty. We value their friendship very much. As for the younger generation of the Patterson family, Matthew is the most outstanding among them.”

Hannah chimed in as well, “That’s right! We like Matthew. Unfortunately, Yana did not marry him, and this has always been a regret for us...”

What?

Natalie realized that Jason and Hannah had something else in mind when they invited her for dinner.

It appeared that they were trying to match-make her!

Natalie cast a glance at Yana who was standing beside her.

Yana quickly shook her head and looked innocent.
