

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Chapter 1916

Chapter 1916

"Would you still want to keep it hidden from me if I hadn't seen you? You always come to her when you say you're going on a business trip, don't you? You go to accompany her every time you work overtime at night, right?"

Lumi finally expressed her concerns. She couldn't take it anymore. Perhaps she had previously believed Samuel's every word. But now, every time she wandered off with her, she could guess whether she was resentful that she wasn't Kirsi.

Samuel's face was stiff and pale. He was also emotional: "No, never, I'm not so dirty!"

He clenched his teeth, frowned at her, and took a step forwards, wanting to touch and comfort her shoulder.

But Lumi stepped back and ducked.

Samuel eyes hurt, so he clenched his fists and patiently said: "I only bothered Kirsi during the marriage, but after explaining the situation to her, I never saw her again. It's just a coincidence that I met her at this time. She had previously offended people, and someone wanted to block her. That's why I took her to social gatherings just to advocate for her. We haven't seen each other in the hotel in a while. I've arrived. It is, indeed, a passing amusement. I didn't tell you I'd returned from a business trip because I was afraid you'd misunderstand..."

At the conclusion, Samuel's voice had become hoarse.

"I'm here today to speak with the director, not to discuss what you think..."

For a while, Samuel stared at Lumi, his heart tangled and complicated.

At first, Lumi's unconditional trust felt natural. But it wasn't until Samuel broke up with Kirsi and focused more of his attention on his marriage that he realised how despicable he was.

Kirsi entered the circle early, her face and heart full of stories. It was really attractive behind the lingering words at first contact.

Powered by Hooligan Media

Lumi, on the other hand, was a completely different. She was pure and innocent, believing that everyone was good and that there was no filth in her world. With him, she felt unworthy of him.

However, Lumi's indifference at the beginning did not disappoint him.

She is always so positive. with her, Samuel has felt a sense of ease and happiness that he has never felt before, laughing...

But.

He simply lied this time and was bumped by her. And it's unavoidable.

Relationships that were like maggots in her eyes in the past are now like the eyes she looks in. Indifference that is disgusting, disgusting, and indescribable.

It added to his weight.

Lumi stood there silently staring at him before reaching out to wipe her tears.

There were no tears shed. However, the display of self-control is enough to make people anxious.

Lumi took a deep breath and pointed behind him, her hands slightly trembling: "Get out, get out, I no longer believe you."

Samuel froze and moved forwards, but Lumi's avoidance was too obvious.

He remained motionless, hesitant to speak: "I understand you can't accept everything at once, but I'll do my best to compensate you."

Lumi laughed softly: "I can't take it anymore, so I'll have the Makinen family's lawyer draught a divorce agreement, and the two will talk about it. Let's have a public or private discussion about it."

"Are you getting divorced?" Samuel's tone was surprised, and his brows were tightly knit. An indescribable emotion, a tightness in the chest.

He clenched his fist: "This situation is simply a misunderstanding. I'll handle it properly, so there won't be a divorce, right?"

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Chapter 1917

Chapter 1917

Lumi's expression couldn't tell whether she was crying or laughing.

It's ugly anyway.

Lumi looked at Samuel with a cold expression: "I thought you'd be happy, Samue. she's the Makinen family's daughter, after all, who wouldn't marry? If you switch to one you like, you won't have to be as sneaky in the future because it's not right for you. What exactly do you mean?"

Samuel's face froze fiercely after Lumi finished speaking. As if he had been slapped in public.

After Lumi finished speaking, she stood up and walked away, returning her gaze to the compartment.

She remembered seeing two other people watching the fun.

She purposefully raised her voice: "You don't have to hide it for me because I know you all heard it. People who do it are not afraid of being embarrassed. What am I scared of?"

She exited directly across Samuel after she finished speaking.

Samuel reached out to take her hand, but it was empty. He went insane all of a sudden.

Divorce....

He didn't even consider it.

Powered by Hooligan Media

"I'm not filing for divorce..."

"I've let go of her, and I want to start living a good life with you." Samuel grumbled.

Lumi, who hasn't gone far, can clearly hear Samuel's words.

Lumi's footsteps, however, did not pause for a second.

A dull pain arose in the chest.

The sensation of having your hands clenched around your heart, as if even breathing is throbbing Suddenly.

Only then did he realise he had seemingly misplaced something important.

Nicole and Julie emerged from the house after hearing no movement.

Everyone has left.

Julie gave a light snort: "Dogs can't stop eating crap, and Lumi is a tough cookie! I'm overjoyed!"

Nicole sighed and raised her brows: "Yeah, it was unexpected, and Samuel kept saying that they were together for money. In the end, she had to divorce because of this. I'm afraid she knows best, whether it was for money or because she liked it!"

"Does that mean she likes Samuel?" Julie was perplexed.

"Every time she talks about Samuel, she puts it lightly, but her eyes light up, didn't you notice?" Nicole pursed her lips.

Julie remained silent for a brief moment, "Then this Lumi will die of sadness now? It's fine if it's someone else, but she'll always be my dearest sister!"

Nicole twitched the corners of her mouth but said nothing.

The door was pushed open at this point.

Kirsi was helped to the front in an embarrassed manner, only to discover that her knees had been scratched, her blood had become mixed with the soil, and she looked extremely embarrassed.

The clothes were also covered in dust.

Nicole and Julie were here, she noticed.

Kirsi's assistant was taken aback for a moment before quickly apologising: "I'm sorry, Ms. Stanton, Director Julie, Kirsi just fell over, so she can only take a short rest, wait for the medicine, and then continue filming..."

Continue filming?

Looking at Kirsi's current state, it is clear that she is not good; therefore, can she continue to shoot?

Kirsi was pushed into a chair next to her and sat, and then the assistant turned to look for the medicine box.

This room used to be a lounge, but it was only for a few people. Kirsi can rest here because the other young actors have a special group lounge.

Julie pursed her lips but didn't open her mouth to show her displeasure.

I'm afraid acting is unnecessary at this point.

She shifted her gaze to Nicole: "Do you want to go out?"

Nicole nodded, not knowing who this Kirsi was, and she was more social with Lumi.

As a result, she unconsciously assumed Lumi's position.

Kirsi, in any case, hurt the person who loved her the most.

Kirsi moved her eyelids and said, hoarsely, just before the two of them left. "I was chasing after my injured sister who had fallen. She didn't even look at me while driving. She's never been so apathetic. Will she not forgive me?"

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Chapter 1918

Chapter 1918

There are only four people without conscience in the room.

The assistant was looking for the medicine cabinet, which wasn't for her.

That leaves Julie and Nicole.

Nicole returned her gaze with a blink.

Really....

Kirsi raised her head, her gaze fixed on them. Nicole, to be more specific.

With difficulty, she moved her lips and said: "Lumi mentioned that you two are good friends. I'm very jealous. Whatever I become, I will never be able to be like her and be friends with everyone without reservation."

On the side, the assistant noticed. She rushed over with a medicine box when she was in a bad mood.

"Kirsi, don't say anything; let's go back and explain..."

"You go out first, I'll talk to them." Kirsi said, blocking her path.

The assistant paused before leaving.

Powered by Hooligan Media

Nicole was standing there "What exactly do you want to say? When you have time, why don't you explain it to your sister?"

Kirsi lowered her head and laughed softly.

"I'll go, but I'm sure you've seen pictures of Samuel and me going in and out together before. I want to emphasise that it is entirely coincidental."

Julie shook her head, not believing it at all.

"So many coincidences don't apply to others; it's a coincidence that you met them all." Nicole said.

Kirsi clenched her teeth and stated, "I've let go of this relationship since they married; I despised it and felt compelled to do so. Why was I Kirsi instead of Lumi, I wondered? I despised my father for being so biased. Do you think I'm ignorant of their marriage? My career was in a slump at the time, and Samuel was manipulating my emotions once more, and I was terrified. You think I have no conscience, but who has a conscience in the Makinen family, except Lumi?"

Julie frowned and turned to face her: "What's the point of telling us?" You can explain your feelings to Lumi if you believe you have been wronged. We believe what we have seen and will not change our minds because of a few words from you.

Julie clearly didn't want to stand here and listen to Kirsi's nonsense.

Kirsi appeared to be honest and kind at first, but this was due to her lack of effort in this circle.

However, it appears that it is no longer honourable. Standing on top of his sister's happiness and climbing up, wouldn't it be despicable?

Nicole gave her a silent glance before following Julie and leaving.

Kirsi's eyes were red as she watched them walk away.

After a while, the assistant arrived. It's difficult to look at her depressed expression."

Everyone is waiting outside. If it gets really bad, I'll inform the director that you're not feeling well and that filming has been temporarily cancelled." Kirsi shakes her head, She stood up and wiped her eyes. She appeared to be capable of instantly regaining her energy.

"It's okay, Nothing can stop the shooting, so don't worry. For me, I have no other option but to eat this bowl of rice."

"Don't worry, Kirsi; Samuel promised to explain everything."

You didn't feel sorry for your sister, after all. You and Samuel were the only ones together now. You had no contact with them after they married.

Before, it was Samuel who kept looking for you..."

"Be quiet..."

Kirsi cut her off and took a deep breath: "What's the matter with my sister? She has to pay for our business?"

I have to apologise in person whether she forgives me or not. I wanted Ms. Julie and Ms. Stanton to help me persuade her at first, but they now refuse to get involved.

My sister has always been arrogant, and she doesn't want to make a big fuss, so it wasn't honourable at first."

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Chapter 1919

Chapter 1919

Kirsi stood up and straightened her hair, saying: "Today's filming will end before five o'clock; please inform the director that I don't care about other people's delays; I will leave after filming."

Assistant Nodding, Kirsi has always had this temper.

She may be willing to wait for other actors to shoot again and again if she has a good temper.

When she's in a bad mood, she'll finish filming quickly and leave. This time, just in time for her difficult period.

Julie and Nicole walked away, and Julie's face was clearly red.

"I knew such a day would come sooner or later, Lumi, this idiot!"

Nicole cast a glance at her: "Ignore it; do you want to see her?"

Julie was unsure: "Is she going to be embarrassed? Is it preferable to be alone?" "Or...call let's and enquire?"

Nicole pulled out her phone and dialled Lumi's number, "If she hangs up, we're not going..."

The phone was answered after only two rings, "I'm at home; please come right away!" Lumi hung up the phone.

Nicole and Julie clearly heard it.

Powered by Hooligan Media

"Why doesn't this person play cards logically?" Julie wondered.

Nicole sighed, "I knew Clayton would recommend a good investment project for her, maybe now money can bring her happiness!"

They said this and walked straight to the car.

Nicole sent Clayton a message that was brief enough that he didn't need to pick it up.

Clayton quickly responded and asked her to send a message to the location.

The sky passed quickly.

The sky was cloudy when the two arrived. It appears to be a sign of rain.

As soon as they walk in, heard the cup smash and Lumi's hysterical crying, "Why do you want me to marry him if it's all your fault? You've heard of them before, right? What exactly am I?"

Nicole and Julie were surprised. The two exchanged glances, unsure whether to enter or not.

The servant has already come over to greet the two: "Please, Ms. Stanton and Ms. Julie..."

Nicole smiled, knowing it was too late to leave.

When they ran into the rest of the Makinen family, it was just too embarrassing for them to stay.

"Ms. Makinen is unhappy, Ms. Stanton and Ms. Julie come over to coax her, the two of you will wait a moment." the servant used to say thoughtfully.

Julie raised her brows, and when the servant was out of sight, she leant over and said quietly: "I've long suspected that Camden Makinen's favourite daughter is on par with your father."

"How normal!" Nicole exclaimed.

A voice from upstairs interrupted the two's conversation.

"You get out of here, my friends are here, and I don't want to see you!"

Lumi ran down the street, her crying voice getting closer. She ran halfway and saw Nicole and Julie, and immediately stopped crying.

Come down slowly.

Camden appeared behind her, carrying a tall, beautiful, and stern woman. That woman was Mrs. Makinen, Louisa Lawrence.

Many people are aware that the Lawrence family was wealthy before Louisa Lawrence married Mr. Makinen.

Camden would not be where he is today if it weren't for the Lawrence family.

Camden frowned and looked worriedly at Lumi: "Lumi, don't cry..."

Louisa followed behind, her eyes hazy, and it was clear that Lumi's business had taken precedence.

Nicole and Julie stood up and said hello.

Camden was stunned for a brief moment before quickly recovering: "We've brought Ms. Stanton and Ms. Julie to make you laugh..."

The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Chapter 1920

Chapter 1920

Although the mall calls Ms. Stanton, but Nicole is present at this time obviously not to discuss business.

Camden looked at Louisa with a helpless smile.

Louisa nodded and politely extended her hand:

“Please take a seat; since they are all Lumi’s friends, you are welcome.”

Nicole and Julie took a seat.

Lumi was sitting around, her eyes were bright red, and she sobbed uncontrollably when she saw it.

She was ashamed to look at her parents:

“You hurry up I don’t want to see you!”

“Don’t be ridiculous...”

Louisa spoke quietly because she couldn’t bear the thought of her daughter being wronged: “Despite the fact that we were already aware of their affairs, Samuel did not take it seriously. He chose to marry the Makinen family’s daughter, which meant saying goodbye to Kirsi! Samuel knew this in his heart, and he dared to bully you, which we would never do. Let him go easily.”

Camden nodded, “Yes, Dad will definitely call the shots for you!”

Powered by Hooligan Media

Lumi smirked: "I'm also the Makinen family's daughter. Dad, why don't you just marry her?"

Louisa Squinting, Although some things are difficult to say in front of strangers, but now they can't care about it.

"You are so naive!"

She sneered, looking down at Camden besides her.

Camden remained silent, his head bowed.

Guilty.

Louisa stated solemnly, "I said, is she your own sister?"

Everything in the Makinen family will be given to you alone in the future. She has absolutely nothing to do with her. Marriage is a significant event that involves the interests of both families. Is it wrong to marry an illegitimate daughter whose origins are unknown and who was previously her mistress?

Not everyone is welcome to visit our home and enjoy it. The living room fell silent after Louisa finished speaking.

Camden sighed and turned to face Lumi: "It's your father's fault, Lumi. your mother's words make sense and let you marry Samuel for your own good."

It's not that our family does not require the Lindstrom family, but the Lindstrom family is the best fit. You don't have to look at his face, and he won't bully you..."

Louisa interjected, "It's still the one with no conscience. What's the point of being so nice to her since you were a kid? Was she gentle when she hurt you?"

Lumi's eyes turned bright red.

Is it all my fault?

"We're obviously married, and I shouldn't mind if there's another woman besides my husband, but you can't lie to me like that, because that woman is my sister!"

I treat her as my sister, no matter how much I despise her!

I wouldn't have married if she liked Samuel. you're too much! Lumi's voice was filled with tears.

Louisa wanted to say something, but Camden stopped her: "Okay, it's already happened, Lumi, but don't worry, we will not let you be wronged."

Louisa smiled as he spoke to Nicole and Julie: "Please persuade her well; don't get too worked up; everything is up to us."

Nicole and Julie exchanged a small smile and nodded as they watched Camden pull his wife away.

Lumi sat there, her face covered, struggling for a long time before finally looking at them in despair: "Isn't it funny?"

They remained silent.

Nicole sighed and said, "Your parents are correct, everything is up to them. If you can't face it, you can hide."

Lumi sneered as she closed her eyes.

"Are they going to divorce me? No, they'll only cause trouble, Kirsi."