

The More the Merrier Chapter 341

Chapter 341 Marry Her

Benjamin took a look at the pair, unable to figure out what his father had up his sleeves.

With Darius' promise, Arissa nodded and replied, "If that's the case, I'll leave it to you to decide then, Mr. Graham."

"Good. Changing their last name is a grand affair. We should find a good day for that!"

Darius was smiling from ear to ear after hearing her reply. He was already thinking of the guestlist for the celebratory banquet he was intending to hold.

"We have to start preparing for the banquet."

Darius finally looked toward Benjamin and reminded him, "You have to treat this matter with utmost importance. Also, inform everyone about it."

"Dad, let's just invite our relatives. There's no need to make it such a grand affair."

Benjamin did not see a need to publicize the matter.

Darius glanced at his son with a stern expression and said, "Are my grandchildren an embarrassment to you?"

Benjamin's lips twitched upon hearing that. "The kids are still young. We should keep them out of the public eye."

After giving it some thought, Darius realized that what Benjamin said made sense. "Oh, and here I thought you were embarrassed by them."

Benjamin was speechless.

Arissa agreed with Benjamin and said to Darius, "Mr. Graham, let's just invite a few of our closest relatives."

"Sure! I'll let you decide then," Darius replied joyfully.

Benjamin was at a loss for words once more, while Arissa merely smiled in response.

"Issa, you should go and take a look at the kids. Don't let them run too far now."

Darius sent Arissa away deliberately.

"Got it." Arissa understood the man's intentions and went over to the kids.

Actually, with Kingsley and Shaun taking care of the kids, she had nothing to worry about.

In fact, even if there were no adults around, she knew that her children would be just fine.

Darius shot a glance at Arissa and said to Benjamin, "You haven't managed to seal the deal yet?"

Benjamin's eyes flickered when he heard that.

Darius looked at his son and continued, "Issa is a wonderful woman. She's a good match for you as well, not to mention she's the mother of your children. You should work harder to seal the deal! Otherwise, you might lose all your children!"

Benjamin frowned and replied, "Dad, why did you promise her that the kids can stay with her no matter how it turned out between us?"

Darius cast a glance at his son and placed his hands behind him.

"If I didn't give her my word, do you think she'll agree to let the children change their last name?"

The crease between Benjamin's brows deepened as he replied, "It's a fact that the children belong to our Graham family."

Darius stared at his son, speechless.

“Why is your thinking even more outdated than mine?”

Benjamin merely gazed at his father and said nothing.

Darius let out a snort and continued, “Even though I gave her my word, it doesn’t mean that you have also agreed to it. Anyway, the priority is to get the children to change their last names. It would be even better if you could marry Issa too. We can just hold one grand banquet to celebrate and save the hassle.”

An unfathomable glint flashed past Benjamin’s eyes as he replied, “I have my own plans.”

Darius looked at his son and gave him a word of caution.

“Just don’t do things that you’ll regret in the future. A woman will never get over a broken heart. Once that happens, she is likely to be scarred for life.”

Darius sighed. Since they were outside, he did not want to say too much.

“I’m going to play with my sweethearts now. It’s so tiring to talk to you.”

After Darius walked over to Arissa, she greeted him with a warm smile.

The two of them started chatting happily with the five kids surrounding them. It was a joyous and harmonious sight.

Benjamin fixed his gaze on the woman’s bright smile and walked toward her.

“It’s time to go home.”

Arissa turned to look at him.

Darius glanced at his son and grumbled, “We have just finished dinner. Why are we going back so soon? I’m planning to walk around town with my sweethearts and enjoy the night scenery.”

He paused and turned toward the five children before asking, "Sweethearts, shall we walk around more?"

The children looked at Arissa and asked, "Mommy, are you coming with us too?"

It was obvious that they did not want the night to end just yet.

By right, they should be exhausted after playing for the whole day. However, they did not seem to be tired at all.

"Of course!"

Arissa wanted to spend more time with the kids as well. After all, they were starting school the next day.

As she had to work too, she would not have much time to accompany them.

The children cheered excitedly. "Hooray! Grandpa, Mommy is coming with us!"

"All right! We'll all go together!"

Darius smiled at the kids affectionately before saying to Benjamin, "If you don't want to join us, feel free to go back yourself. No one is stopping you."

Hearing that, Kingsley and Shaun chuckled under their breath before going to get the car.

The More the Merrier Chapter 342

Chapter 342 You Cannot Be Too Persistent With Girls

Since the kids had no desire to go home just yet, Benjamin had no choice but to follow them.

Arissa was not in the same car as him. Instead, she was with the kids and Darius.

Kingsley was initially in the same car as the kids, but he had been chased out. In the end, he could only sit in Benjamin's car.

Sitting beside the driver's seat, he felt pressured.

He would sneak occasional glances at Benjamin, whose expression was grim and frosty.

Kingsley did not even dare to breathe loudly.

"Where did you guys go today?" asked Benjamin nonchalantly.

Kingsley looked at him and grinned.

"We went to the garden and the amusement park! I took them to the roller coasters."

Nodding, Benjamin remarked, "When you're free, bring them out more often."

Kingsley raised his eyebrows and asked carefully, "What do you mean, Boss?"

Powered by Hooligan Media

For some reason, his words sounded rather scary.

Benjamin shot a sharp glance at the rearview mirror and replied solemnly, "I mean what I said. Is there something wrong with your brain?"

Kingsley fell silent before mumbling under his breath, "I'll bring them out even if you didn't tell me to. It's fun to play with them!"

Besides, Gavin became much happier when he was with the other four children.

Their happiness was infectious, too. Anyone who saw them would have their mood improve.

"Boss, don't you want to play with them? You can improve your relationship by doing that," suggested Kingsley.

Benjamin replied coldly, "I'm busy."

The corners of Kingsley's lips twitched.

"But you can't be busy all the time, right? You should heed Old Mr. Graham's advice. You need to spend your weekends accompanying them."

Naturally, Benjamin knew what he should do.

Frowning, he changed the topic. "Why did you enter my car just now?"

Stunned, Kingsley did not know why Benjamin suddenly asked that question.

"Couldn't you have snatched the chance to get into that car first?" Benjamin was unhappy.

Kingsley blinked in confusion before finally realizing what was going on. Is Benjamin blaming me for giving the seat up for Arissa?

Grinning, he scrutinized Benjamin, who looked extremely grumpy.

Kingsley cleared his throat. "Boss, you can't be too persistent if you're pursuing a girl. It'll make her feel suffocated like she has no freedom at all. You need to relax your hold when appropriate, appear when it's the right time, and stay away from her when you should. You need to let her be alone and have her time to herself!"

Benjamin frowned, ignoring Kingsley's words.

"By the way, Boss. How's your progress with her?"

Kingsley was quite curious.

Benjamin shot him a glance.

"A word of advice. Sometimes, you shouldn't be too restrained. When it comes to women, you need to be more domineering. Just go for it!" suggested Kingsley with a smile.

"Get out of the car if you can't keep your mouth shut!" yelled Benjamin, thinking that his friend was being too noisy.

Kingsley pouted before falling quiet.

Arissa went to the city plaza with the children and Darius. They got out of the car and observed the bustling streets in the city center.

"Issa, have you come here before?" asked Darius with a smile.

They were at a plaza that had just been constructed. As it just started operations, it was one of the hottest spots.

"Not yet," replied Arissa. "These didn't exist before I went overseas."

Darius nodded and started introducing some fun places to them.

While Arissa and the kids listened to him, they admired the scenery.

"Mommy, there's ice cream there!"

Jesse licked her lips, feeling hungry.

"Why don't I go and buy some for her, Mommy?" suggested Jasper.

"No. I'll go buy some. Stick with Grandpa, okay?" Arissa reminded the five children before leaving.

Darius smiled and looked at his five grandchildren. "Issa, buy one more! I'd like to eat ice cream too!"

“Got it, Mr. Graham!” replied Arissa with a smile as she turned her head around.

Then, she walked over to buy the ice cream.

After counting the number of people, she bought nine.

Suddenly, an unfamiliar voice sounded beside her. “Hey babe, can you buy one more? I want to eat some ice cream, but I didn’t bring my wallet.”

The More the Merrier Chapter 343

Chapter 343 Justin Flirts With Arissa

Arissa glanced around and saw the person staring at her with a smile.

She was stunned, but decided to ignore him.

Checking her out, Justin was amazed. As expected of a woman who can catch Benjamin’s eye.

“Come on babe, do me a favor and treat me to ice cream, won’t you?”

Arissa frowned and shot a glance at him. “Don’t you have a phone? It’s so convenient to pay online nowadays. It doesn’t matter if you forgot your wallet as long as you have your phone with you.”

Justin lowered his head and glanced at his phone. Oof... she has a point there. I miscalculated.

He smirked devilishly. "I forgot that I have my phone with me. Why don't I treat you to ice cream then?"

As Justin spoke, he ordered another ice cream from the waiter and paid the bill.

Arissa did not like that at all. Why is he acting so weirdly for no reason?

"Can I have your number, babe?" Justin continued to flirt with her.

"I'm sorry, but I'm not interested!" rejected Arissa coldly.

Powered by Hooligan Media

After the ice cream was ready, she took the bag, paid for her orders, and left.

Justin stared at her broodingly. This woman's got a personality.

"Sir, do you still want the ten ice cream?" reminded the waiter.

Justin turned around and stared at him. "Give two to me and distribute the remaining ice cream to the others nearby."

"Sure!"

When Benjamin arrived and heard that Arissa had left to buy ice cream, he walked over and saw her coming back.

"Why did you wander around?"

Arissa frowned and rebuked in annoyance, "I just went to buy some food. What do you mean that I'm wandering around?"

A glint flashed past Benjamin's eye when he spotted a figure. He narrowed his eyes.

At the ice cream shop, Justin was walking in the opposite direction with the two ice cream, his back facing them.

Noticing how Benjamin was looking at something behind her, Arissa turned around and glanced behind but she did not see anything.

Holding the ice cream, she walked back and passed an ice cream to Darius.

"Here you go, Mr. Graham!"

"Thank you for the ice cream, Issa!"

Darius was happy like a child.

"You're welcome!" replied Arissa with a smile.

Then, she gave one ice cream each to the five children.

"Hold them properly now! You won't get to have another one if you drop them!"

"You're so petty, Mommy." Oliver stuck his tongue out.

Arissa flicked her son's forehead. "You're the pettiest one here! Why didn't you treat us to food?"

Oliver chuckled. Adjusting his glasses, he started licking the ice cream happily.

Zachary and Gavin said appeasingly, "The ice cream you bought for us tastes so good, Mommy!"

Smiling, Arissa passed an ice cream to Shaun and Kingsley.

"Thank you, Mrs. Graham!"

The two of them were overjoyed as they did not expect to have ice cream as well.

Arissa started to eat her ice cream, feeling satisfied.

Ahh... Dessert after food is the most enjoyable.

Benjamin glanced at them.

He walked over to Arissa and asked in a deep voice, "Don't I have one?"

Arissa shot a look at him. "I thought you didn't like sweet food?"

Benjamin's eyes glinted. It was true that he disliked dessert and street food.

However, he felt annoyed after seeing that she bought ice cream for everyone but him.

"Who said that?"

He then grabbed her hand and took a bite of the ice cream at the spot that she just licked.

Arissa widened her eyes in shock.

Without even a change in his expression, Benjamin ate a huge chunk of her ice cream.

"Hey! Didn't you see that I've already started eating this?"

Looking at her half-eaten ice cream, she felt gloomy.

Benjamin glanced at her from the corner of his eyes.

"I've just taken a small bite of your ice cream. Do you have to be so petty?"

Arissa was furious. Is this really a problem of me being petty?

If he wants ice cream, why can't he ask someone to buy it for him?

Looking at how furious she was, Benjamin chuckled in amusement.

"Don't you know that women shouldn't eat too much cold foods?"

Arissa rolled her eyes at him and walked over to the children.

While eating the ice cream, Shaun and Kingsley stared at the childish Benjamin in amusement.

"If this is how Benjamin pursues girls, it'll only be counter-productive! I'd be angry too if I were her!" Shaun chuckled to himself.

The More the Merrier Chapter 344

Chapter 344 Why Are You Glaring At Me

Kingsley took a bite of his ice cream. "Yeah. Women hate it when something they like gets snatched away."

When Benjamin shot them a cold glare, they quickly averted their gazes and caught up with Darius and the rest.

Benjamin strode behind the kids.

"Do you still want to eat anything else?" he asked the children.

Jesse glanced at him and walked toward Arissa.

Benjamin raised his brows.

Laughing, Arissa stroked her daughter's head affectionately. "Don't be scared."

Benjamin was speechless.

Looking at how gloomy his father looked, Gavin smiled.

"Zachary, Oliver, Jasper, let's go there to play!" Gavin beckoned his brothers over.

The three kids nodded and ran away with him.

Powered by Hooligan Media

Laughing, Darius strode behind them.

Benjamin sighed.

Is Gavin rebelling?

He turned his head around and glared at Arissa, who blinked innocently. When she saw him still staring at her, she returned his glare.

“Why are you glaring at me?”

“Yeah! You’re not allowed to glare at Mommy!” Jesse glared at Benjamin menacingly.

When Kingsley and Shaun saw that, they laughed till their stomachs ached.

“Benjamin, you need to be gentler with girls,” suggested Kingsley fearlessly.

Benjamin shot another glare at him.

Laughing, Kingsley walked away.

Shaun rushed forward and scooped Jesse into his arms.

“Jesse, I’ll bring you over there to play, okay?”

Smiling, Jesse stared at Shaun. “Can I get something to eat, Uncle Shaun?”

“Sure! Just tell me what you’d like to eat and I’ll buy it for you!”

Shaun’s expression was filled with affection.

Jesse was overjoyed. “Can you buy some for my brothers too?”

“Of course!” Shaun agreed easily.

“Let’s go, then. Mommy, come with us!” Jesse turned her head around and beckoned Arissa over.

Arissa nodded with a smile and reminded, “Don’t eat something that you shouldn’t!”

“Got it!” Jesse nodded obediently.

Shaun glanced at them and left while carrying Jesse.

When Benjamin saw that Arissa was about to follow them, he took a step forward and grabbed her hand.

“Do you still want ice cream? I’ll buy one for you.”

Arissa glanced at him. “I don’t want to eat it anymore.”

Staring at her puffed-up cheeks, Benjamin laughed and asked, “Are you still angry?”

Arissa pouted and ignored him.

Benjamin scanned his surroundings and spotted many eateries.

“Do you like barbeque?”

Arissa swallowed hard at that.

Chuckling, Benjamin brought her over to a barbeque stall and bought some for her.

Arissa did not expect him to actually buy it for her. With a surprised look, she stared at his lean back.

A heartwarming feeling filled her heart.

“What would you like to eat?” asked Benjamin as he turned around.

When he noticed her distracted look, he frowned.

What is this woman thinking about?

Arissa returned to her senses. Looking at how generous he was being, she said deliberately, “I want to eat everything!”

Benjamin stared at her for a few seconds before turning around and instructing the owner, “I’d like to have a serving of everything.”

“Ten servings!” added Arissa.

The owner of the stall stared at them.

He asked, “Are you sure that you want ten servings?”

Arissa nodded firmly. “Yeah, I’m sure. I want ten servings!”

Benjamin let her order anything that she wanted.

“Are you sure you can finish so much food?”

Arissa gazed at him and replied with a smile, “We have so many people with us. Of course we can finish all the food! Or, are you so petty that you don’t want to treat them?”

Only he can come up with the idea of only treating me to food.

Arissa’s lips twitched at the thought.

Looking at how considerate she looked, Benjamin was amused.

He snorted softly.

“You’re such a considerate person.”

Arissa was rendered speechless.

“If you can’t bear to treat others to food, don’t do it, then. I’ll pay for it myself.”

The More the Merrier Chapter 345

Chapter 345 Feeding Her

Benjamin pursed his lips. Is this a problem about me being too petty? If she's so considerate toward others, why isn't she considerate toward me?

In the next second, Benjamin whipped out his phone and paid the bill.

Staring at him, Arissa teased deliberately, "Mr. Graham, do you want me to transfer the money back to you?"

"There's no need for that," rebuked Benjamin solemnly as he glared at her.

Arissa laughed in amusement. "Thank you for your treat, then, Mr. Graham!"

Benjamin pinched her cheeks.

"You'll have to treat me back next time."

The corners of Arissa's lips twitched.

After the food was all packed, Benjamin gestured at it. "Aren't you getting it?"

Arissa was speechless.

She picked up the ten servings of barbeque and took a sniff at it.

Powered by Hooligan Media

"D*mn, that smells good! I can't wait to eat it!"

A smile played on Benjamin's lips when he saw how eager she was.

“What do you want to eat first?”

“Squid!” blurted Arissa.

She then glanced at the squid that the stall was selling before leaving with the food.

Benjamin took a bag from her, picked up some squid, and placed it beside her mouth.

Arissa shot him a glance before opening her mouth and taking a bite.

She exclaimed in satisfaction, “How yummy!”

Upon seeing how she seemed to find everything she ate delicious, Benjamin was curious about whether it actually tasted good.

Just when he raised his hand to have a bite, Arissa urged him, “Hurry up! I want another bite!”

Benjamin’s hand froze mid-air. He then changed the trajectory of his hand and moved the squid to her mouth again.

Taking a bite of the squid’s tentacles, Arissa closed her eyes with a smile, clearly savoring the food.

When Benjamin spotted the sauce at the corners of her lips, he searched his pocket. However, he realized that he did not bring his handkerchief.

Just when he was about to raise his hand to wipe it for her, Arissa licked her lips clean.

Benjamin’s gaze landed on the pink tip of her tongue, and a glint flashed across his eyes.

When Arissa noticed his passionate stare, she was embarrassed. “I-I’ll bring this to them!”

As she spoke, she ran toward the kids.

Benjamin snorted softly and followed behind her.

“Sweethearts, have some barbeque!”

The kids cheered happily when they saw her rushing over with her hands filled with food.

“Thank you, Mommy!”

“Haha! There’s no need to thank me,” said Arissa with a smile.

She glanced at Benjamin and explained, “Your daddy’s the one who bought it.”

The five children, including Darius, Kingsley, and Shaun, looked at Benjamin.

“Thank you, Mr. Graham!” chorused the five children before taking the food from Arissa’s hands.

“Come on! Everyone has a share!”

Arissa passed the food out to everyone. When there was only one serving left, she started eating it.

Benjamin was holding onto his own portion of food.

“Benjamin, I didn’t expect you to buy food from such eateries!” teased Shaun with a grin.

Kingsley joined in on the fun. “We can only eat this because of Mrs. Graham. Otherwise, we’d never have the chance to eat it.”

Ignoring them, Benjamin walked toward Arissa. “Do you still want your squid?”

Darius burst out laughing when he saw Benjamin’s serious expression.

Arissa took it, feeling embarrassed. “I have some squid here. Do you want it?”

“No. You can have it.”

Benjamin did not even eat the barbeque that he was holding.

The five children glanced at Benjamin, who returned their stares. “Do you want some drinks?”

They blinked.

“Of course, we want some drinks. Do you even have to ask?” Gavin scoffed.

Benjamin glanced at the children and passed his barbeque over. “Here. Take this. I’ll go and buy us some drinks.”

Gavin looked at his father for a while before walking over and taking the food.

He then said haughtily, “I want milk tea!”

Zachary chimed in, “I want lemonade.”

Oliver said, “I want strawberry milk tea!”

Jasper added, “I want melon milk tea!”

Jesse joined in softly, “I want apple milk tea!”

Benjamin glanced at the children before looking at Arissa. “Would you like to have milk tea as well?”

She nodded. “I’d like a strawberry milk tea too!”

Shaun and Kingsley automatically gave their orders as well.

Kingsley said, “I’d like a mango milk tea.”

Shaun chimed in, “Same for me!”

Smiling, Darius said to Benjamin, “I want one with grass jelly inside.”

Benjamin was speechless.

With that, he left to buy some milk tea. Other than the kids and Arissa who wanted milk tea, he got the other three adults plain water.

As for the milk tea, they were all of the same flavor—strawberry.

