

Always Been Yours Chapter 79

Chapter 79 Business Matters

“Mm-hmm, I will!” Sophia was reduced to tears, but she could only watch Silas and Lauren being sent away in the police car.

After Tessa sent her brother to the hospital, she immediately had him undergo medical examinations and had his wounds bandaged. Fortunately, other than suffering some superficial wounds, there was nothing serious about Timothy’s injuries, and Tessa could not help but breathe a sigh of relief when she heard that, feeling much more relieved in her heart. After her brother got the wounds treated, they all left the hospital.

At this time, Tessa unexpectedly saw that Nicholas had not left yet and was still waiting outside. Thinking about what had happened today, she bit her lip and immediately went forward to thank Nicholas. “President Sawyer, thank you so much for today. If it weren’t for your help, my brother might still be locked up right now.”

She was really grateful to him from the bottom of her heart this time. After all, if he hadn’t been there, she really wouldn’t have been able to guarantee that she could get her brother out by herself alone.

Nicholas’s expression was as usual, without the slightest ripple. He said indifferently, “It’s not a big deal. As long as you’re all fine.”

As they were talking, Henry happened to come out with Timothy. Seeing his sister talking with a man, Timothy was slightly surprised, so he went close. “Who is this, Tessa?”

Smiling, Tessa quickly introduced, “Timothy, this is President Nicholas Sawyer of the Sawyer Group.”

Once Timothy and Henry heard who this man was, they were both stunned, especially Henry, who immediately snapped into a proper posture. It was widely known that the Sawyers were the top family in the country and that the president of the Sawyer Group was a legendary figure.

Both of them didn't expect Tessa to know this man. However, Tessa did not notice anything and continued to smile. "Timothy, in fact, I was only able to bring the police over thanks to the help of President Sawyer. Without him, I really may not be able to save you."

Upon hearing that, Timothy quickly came back to his senses, then politely bowed. "Thank you, President Sawyer."

Nicholas still looked indifferent; he simply said in an icy voice, "No need to thank me. It's not a big issue. Since you're fine, I will leave first."

Tessa nodded slightly and said, "Don't worry about Greg. I will go over to teach him."

Hearing this, Nicholas looked at her deeply for a moment, then nodded and was about to leave. Unexpectedly, before he could step away, Timothy suddenly shouted after him, "President Sawyer, please stay for a minute!"

Stopping, Nicholas slightly raised an eyebrow and looked back in confusion. "Is there something else?"

Timothy's heart was pounding, and his breathing was a little quick. He subconsciously gulped and finally gathered the courage to ask, "President Sawyer, are you free? May I take up some of your time? I have some business matters that I want to talk to you about."

On hearing that, Tessa and Henry were startled. The latter naturally knew what Timothy wanted to do, and all of a sudden, he too got a little excited, and his gaze also shone. Nicholas's deep eyes were slightly averted, but he was a tad surprised. Originally, he was planning to find an opportunity to talk about this, but he did not expect the other party to take the initiative to approach him.

However, Nicholas was not impatient. His black eyes swept across Timothy, and seeing the bandage around his head, he could not help but ask in a light voice, "Will you be fine?"

"I'm f—" Timothy wanted to say he was fine, but after talking for some time, he felt a little dizzy and stumbled backward suddenly. When Nicholas saw this, he said without changing his expression, "There is no hurry. Since you are not feeling well, go back to rest first, and we can set another time to discuss work-related matters.”

Hearing this, Timothy had no choice but to nod. “Okay, then have a nice day, President Sawyer.”

No longer hesitating, Nicholas turned around and quickly left. After the Rolls-Royce drove away, Tessa breathed a sigh of relief. Turning her head, she asked in a slightly puzzled tone, “Timothy, is the work-related matter you guys discussed just now about the software you developed?”

Timothy replied, “Yes. I developed a piece of software with Henry, and it was also the reason Silas came for me.”