

Apex Chapter 519

Chapter 519

Let's Team Up The attack on the Whites' island that day made all the major families realize just how insane and powerful the Raiders were.

They really were insane because they had even tried to kill off all the major families in one fell swoop. Meanwhile, everyone inside the bunker's conference room was utterly furious.

This was something that had never happened before throughout the history of these major families, so this was literally a challenge launched against them all!

Sitting on the host's seat, Piers began speaking. "Now that you've all witnessed how sinister the Raiders are, I hope we'll all be able to share any information we have regarding them. We must hold nothing back and team up to eliminate them as quickly as possible!"

Thomas Andrew immediately agreed with what Piers had said. "Yes, we must never allow such arrogant people to challenge our position! I'm willing to contribute all the information we have on them first."

After saying that, Thomas gave Connor a signal, and he proceeded to say, "We've discovered that the Raiders are related to a certain corporation that smuggles petroleum. However, when we tried to eliminate them, we came up with absolutely nothing because they had already moved all of their assets, even killing or taking away everyone that knew about their operation.

"We also managed to find out that they're related to other industries..."

Connor had said a lot of trivial things, but none of them were any useful in the end.

Javier immediately sensed how sly the Andrews were. 'They're not telling us any genuine intel. Instead, they're just coming up with all this useless nonsense, even making it seem as though they're really sincere.

'It's like someone taking the lead to have everyone participate in a charity campaign, even handing out a cheque and helping out with a lot of stuff.

'In the end, the cheque turns out to be for a very meager amount that will not make any difference whatsoever.

'I suppose this is what it's like to put on an act in order to get everyone's attention. The Andrews are throwing out all this useless information in hopes that they'll gain more intel from others.

'But they're forgetting one very important thing... The people here are all from major families, so they certainly aren't fools.' Hence, with the Andrews taking the lead, everyone began sharing the intel they had, which was utterly useless.

Piers was so furious that he began to laugh. "Excellent... Excellent! I'm even thinking of joining the Raiders now! They can cover their tracks so well that none of you have been able to grab a hold of a single piece of intel on them. All you could do is get beaten up and remain on the defense this entire time. Bravo!"

Everyone present could naturally tell that this was a sarcastic comment, but still...none of the people present was willing to tell the truth.

Upon seeing this, Piers clenched his fists but very quickly released them.

He turned to Zephiel, who nodded his head very subtly.

The two elders, who had been both friends and foes, were able to communicate with an instant eye look.

After obtaining Zephiel's support and approval, Piers finally said, "Since all of you are unwilling to share any actual information, allow me to share what I have."

After saying that, Piers signaled at Renly.

Understanding his duty, Renly stood up and said, "A few days ago, my uncle, Geoffrey White, disappeared. We have reason and evidence to think that he has joined the Raiders."

The entire conference hall went absolutely silent the moment Renly said this.

All of them were shocked, but not to the point that they were dumbfounded. It was as though... this was not something totally unacceptable.

Javier noticed the old men's eye looks, so he stood up before Zephiel even needed to tell him

1.

"Almost a month ago, Arthur Kersey, my uncle, also disappeared. We also have proof that he attacked our family business before."

Everyone on the scene fell silent upon hearing this. None of them was shocked. They were just silent, as though they had already gotten used to this.

They were all still silent when Javier sat down, none of them willing to stand up and say anything

Piers looked at the crowd and laughed out of anger.

Just as he was about to lash out in fury, Zephiel suddenly held out his hand.

"My old friend, since it seems that only the Kersseys and the Whites have come across such a situation, let's team up!"

Piers instantly understood what Zephiel was playing at. He might have been silently cursing the old fox for his cunning methods, but he still happily held out his hand.

However, before the two of them were able to shake on it, Thomas began to panic.

Hence, he hurriedly said, "My sister, Britney Andrews, has also been missing for three months now. In fact, she even tried to have Connor assassinated. We found out that the assassin came from the Raiders' base, which we tried to destroy."

Originally, Thomas had not planned on telling anyone about this because, one, it was embarrassing, and two, he did not want anyone else to discover his family's secret.

But he had instantly panicked when he had heard that Zephiel and Piers were going to partner up.

Both of them were already stronger than him in the first place, so if they were to team up, the Andrews would most likely be on their way to extinction.

Hence, thanks to Zephiel's fake threat, everyone began to speak up and declare that they all had a family member who was missing.

Just the thought of this alone could send chills down anyone's spine. The Raiders, who were the biggest enemy the major families had ever come across, were actually members of their own families.

It was no wonder they possessed such strong resources and knew so many things about each family, as though they knew them like the back of their hands.

In the end, only Angelina had yet to say anything. After remaining silent for almost two minutes under everyone's gazes, she finally spoke up.

"Our family's current family leader, Antonov, is...missing. We have evidence to prove that he was involved in destroying, robbing, and fighting the family in the firearms business." Everyone was stunned when they heard this. Everyone else only had family members missing, but the Soroy's case took the cake, as their family leader had deserted them.

It was no wonder Angelina had refused to say anything. After all, the Soroy's relied on the firearms business as their sole source of income.

Hence, now that the family leader was gone, how could Angelina possibly be willing to tell anyone that he had defected to the Raiders and even led the attack against the Soroy's?

Wouldn't she be telling everyone that the Soroy's had a huge internal issue? Wouldn't the Soroy's be in danger of someone attacking them while they were weak?!

Everyone could immediately tell what Angelina was thinking.

However, the old fox was indeed a cunning old fox. He was able to immediately quell all of Angelina's fears.

"Angelina has been dealing with us on behalf of the Soroy's over the past few years. In fact, her family is indeed doing much better under her leadership. So, now that we have a common enemy, I hope everyone will leave whatever dispute or grudge you may have had against her family in the past.

"If anyone dares to attack either the Soroy's or Angelina herself right now, the Kerseys will do everything in their power to assist them, even declaring an all-out war against any enemies they may have outside." Since this meeting had been called by the Whites on their own turf, Piers was the one who was the host at the end of the day, which was why Zephiel had never said anything throughout this entire time.

However, Zephiel had no choice but to voice his opinion at that moment. If Piers were to stand at the forefront and openly protect the Soroy's, he would end up affecting the relationship the Kerseys had with the Soroy's. Hence, after Zephiel made his announcement, Piers fiercely shot him a dangerous glare. Then, he softly mumbled, "Well played, you old fox. You've perfectly managed to take advantage of the situation!"

