Never Late, Never Away Chapter 3301- 3310

Chapter 3301 Did You Find Anything

“Osmond, are we just going to let them off for humiliating us?”

While Mia attempted to sow further discord, Megan sneered in response and gave her a sympathetic look.

“Mia, let me give you a piece of advice. If you don’t leave now, no one can guarantee your safety here.”

Triggered by the contemptuous look in Megan’s eyes, Mia exploded in anger. No longer satisfied with verbal attacks, she felt the urge to physically hurt Megan. However, Osmond warned her off with a glare.

Osmond who was known to be someone reserved finally let his temper flare. There was not an ounce of hesitation within the icy stare that he gave her.

As if she finally realized the severity of the situation, Mia retreated behind Osmond’s back. Despite opening her mouth to protest, no words came out of it.

It was now obvious to her that even Osmond could not change the situation.

“Shut up. Let’s go.”

With a darkened expression, Osmond was no longer in the mood to hear another word from Mia. As Megan and the rest watched both of them leave, they felt rather relieved.

“I’m afraid, Mia is going to become the most hated woman within the industry.”

Jerry shook his head as he turned his attention back to the screen. Megan and Silas shared his sentiments but it wasn't their job as actors to worry about it.

After the recording for the second episode was completed, Megan and Donna left the film site. Along the way, both of them chatted about what she saw at Lostaria. It then reminded them of Jonas' incident.

After having returned to Lostaria the second time, Megan contacted Rocky to investigate the matter. However, they had not received any updates from him.

With that thought in mind, Megan took out her phone, planning to give him a call.

"Making a call?" Donna couldn't help but ask curiously. She then teased, "To Mr. Wilson?"

After dialing the number, Megan shook her head, feeling amused. "Definitely not. Don't let your imagination run wild. I'm calling Rocky to ask about Jonas."

"I see..." Donna pretended to be surprised as she dragged out her words on purpose. The teasing look in her eyes gave Megan goosebumps.

Averting her gaze, Megan looked away from Donna. Meanwhile, she twirled her hair with her fingers while waiting for Rocky to pick up.

"Hello? Who is this?"

After a while, the call finally connected. Raising her eyebrows, Megan calmly replied, "It's me, Megan. Are you free to talk?"

The moment he heard Megan's voice, Rocky who was typing on the keyboard with his other hand stopped. Holding his phone, he motioned for someone else to take over his work before walking out.

"Why are you calling me all of a sudden? Do you have something scandalous to share?"

By then, Rocky and Megan enjoyed a strange relationship akin to symbiosis, where they relied on each other in a delicate way.

Megan was aware that Rocky wasn't always keen on helping her out. However, as someone without a public relations officer, he was her spokesperson by default. Therefore, she had to always entice him into doing her bidding.

"There are no new leaks but there's something I want to ask you about. Remember when I requested you to help me investigate the rumor about Jonas being gay? Did you find anything?"

At the mention of Jonas, Rocky quickly remembered the case. After a brief silence, he recalled the details in his mind and reported, "Yes I did. Everything you saw online was fabricated. The person in the room wasn't Jonas at all."

Not Jonas?

It was just as Megan had expected. Thereafter, she couldn't help but ask, "In that case, who is he?"

"Let me think. I remembered that he was just a small-time actor..." Scratching his head and furrowing his eyebrows, Rocky racked his brains. "Oh yea, his name is Nathan Coyle."

Chapter 3302 Things Are No Longer The Same

Megan frowned when she heard the name. She tried her best to recall that person; yet, her effort was to no avail.

In the end, she asked, "Who is he? Why is he trying to accuse Jonas?"

Megan bombarded Rocky with all sorts of questions, but he had no answers to her questions. He reached for the other phone he had with him and started perusing Nathan's information.

“He a model-turned-actor and has been cast as supporting characters in different dramas. Unfortunately, he has yet to make a name out of himself. According to the gathered intel, he seems to have a few sugar daddies.”

Her lips unwittingly twitched as she was at a loss for words. After a few seconds, she asked, “If that’s the case, do you have any evidence to prove he was the one in Mr. Whittemore’s room?”

Megan heaved a sigh of relief because she could prove Jonas innocent with the evidence Rocky had gathered.

Nonetheless, he would still have to go through a lot in order to get rid of the label of being gay. Otherwise, his image would be tarnished.

Megan thought that particular statement was a double innuendo. Thus, she asked, “Why? What exactly is going on?”

“The staff of the hotel told me Jonas was there to sign the renewal clause. He wasn’t there for Mr. Whittemore, but they happened to be there around the same time. The netizen got creative and linked the photo of the topless man to them.”

Is that all?

Megan was stupefied—it was evident that she still had her doubts. Hence, she asked, “Are you indicating these were nothing more than coincidences? Mr. Whittemore has never once intended to accuse Jonas?”

She could vividly recall her conversation with Jonas at the hotel—he told her Anderson was the one who was behind everything.

Puffing on the cigarette, Rocky looked elsewhere and started chuckling. He replied sheepishly, “That wasn’t part of his plan, but he might have changed his mind after the photos made it to the internet. I believe Mr. Whittemore wants to prove Jonas has violated the terms, so he doesn’t have to fork out a fortune to void the agreement. Perhaps he had acquired the aid of the attorney for the same reason.”

Megan arched her brows in confusion and wondered if the fortune associated with voiding the agreement was worth exposing his sexual preference to the public.

“That’s pretty much everything regarding the incident Jonas has gotten himself involved. I didn’t have the time to explain everything. Also, you didn’t ask me about the detail,” Rocky explained everything in a calm and collected manner as though it was just another casual conversation.

Curious by his sudden change of attitude, she asked, “Thank you so much for your help, but I have one last question for you. Are you sure you’re the Rocky I’m acquainted with? The one I know is an extremely calculative man.”

He had his eyes glued to the cigarette in between his fingers as he deadpanned his reply, “When you were away at Lostaria, I was stabbed and rushed to the hospital. Perhaps, it was the doing of another celebrity I had offended. Fortunately, it was nothing fatal. You’re not the only one who has mentioned the same thing, but you’re the only one who isn’t against the idea of talking to me.”

Megan was surprised by the series of events that had occurred during the brief span she was away—Jonas was involved in a scandal, whereas Rocky was stabbed. Survival had always been tough in showbiz.

She tried to console the seemingly dejected man. "It's time for you to move on because there's nothing you can do to change the outcome. No matter what you're up to, as long as you stay true to yourself, it's fine."

Overwhelmed by emotions, Megan heaved a long sigh when she recalled something. Suddenly, she brought up another request and asked, "I need you to do me another favor! Are you free at the moment?"

After puffing on the cigarette once more, he asked, "What is it? I don't mind if it's nothing tough."

"It's not tough at all because it's what you do best! I need you to announce two things in the form of a question-and-answer session on your Twitter account!" Megan gave it a thought and swirled her eyes before adding, "Tell everyone Mia was the reason behind the delay of Let's Run. On top of that, verify Jonas wasn't gay."

Rocky went dead silent for a few seconds after he heard the request. A short while later, he asked, "Do I get anything in return?"

Although Rocky was no longer the aggressive man he used to be, he hadn't given up on pursuing wealth in life.

After much considerations, Megan added, "I'll pay you, but I don't have that much after spending a fortune to get the better of Herman."

Rocky's drooping pair of eyes gleamed in excitement when he heard her mentioning Herman. He asked with a smirk, "You can consider this a non-monetary compensation by telling me the things that have happened between you and Herman. Once you tell me everything, I'll post the update immediately."

Megan was dumbfounded because Rocky didn't bother to conceal his intention at all. In the end, she shared everything that had occurred in Lostaria with him.

He burst out laughing because he found the series of incidents hilarious. "Oh, God! Those aren't really worth it, but I can't possibly go back against my words when I have promised to do you the favor. I'll get it done as soon as possible."

"Alright, allow me to express my gratitude in advance."

After they wrapped up their conversation and hung up the call, Megan let out a long sigh of relief. She was thrilled when she started imagining the things awaiting Mia.

After being picked on by Mia over and over again, Megan thought it was about time for Mia to have a taste of her own medicine and become the laughing stock of netizens.

She was also determined to get back at her for the things that happened in Lostaria should the opportunity arise.

I guess I should call it a day after sorting out Jonas' issue. I'm pretty sure netizens will believe Rocky's announcement.

After all, it isn't a one-sided statement from Jonas. Once those from the industry are made aware of the truth, the public can speculate all they want because their opinion doesn't really matter anymore.

Most importantly, Jonas doesn't have to be worried about his future anymore.

Once Megan hung up the call, she decided to dine in a nearby restaurant because she could hear Donna and her stomach growling after a long day.

Although they were seated at the corner of the restaurant, a lot of fans noticed her presence and approached her for photos and signatures. She couldn't bear to turn them down. Thus, she would have to entertain her fans every few minutes.

"Wow! Megan, I guess you're going to make it soon, huh?"

Immediately after they finished their meal, they sneaked out of the restaurant. When Donna recalled how Megan had to sign her autographs every few minutes, she guessed Megan would soon make a name out of herself. Unable to hold back her excitement, she yelled and jumped for joy.

Megan was relatively calm. She tapped on Donna's shoulders and pinched her cheek to conceal the joy she felt deep down. "We're not even close to my ultimate goal. Shall we keep the celebration for the day my ultimate goal is achieved?"

It wasn't an attempt to demotivate Donna. Instead, those were words of motivation in disguise to keep herself going because she knew she had to work harder.

She wasn't a match for the bigshots in the industry in terms of resources and connections. Thus, if she wanted to catch up with them, she couldn't afford to slack even the slightest bit.

Never Late, Never Away Chapter 3304

Chapter 3304 Get Me A Photographer

"Alright, I'll give my best to support you!"

Donna was conscious of the things Megan was up to after collaborating with her for such a long time. She responded with a bright grin because she was equally excited about the things awaiting them in the future.

She wrapped her arms around Megan and said, "Shall we go home?"

Megan's eyes widened in disbelief when Donna brought up the suggestion—she forgot to tell her Jake had brought her back to his place against her will.

What should I do? Since I lied when I was involved in the production of the show, I guess it's time for me to explain everything, huh?

"What's wrong, Megan? Don't you want to go home?" The observant Donna noticed Megan's hesitation and got in front of her.

Megan looked elsewhere because her mind was all over the place. Once she figured out she wouldn't be able to keep it to herself any longer, she decided to tell Donna the truth.

She looked at Donna in the eyes and announced, "Donna, I need to tell you something—I won't be staying at your place from today onwards."

When Donna heard her, her heart skipped a beat because she was confused by the reason behind the decision that came out of nowhere.

It took her a few seconds to snap out of the state of bewilderment. Confused, she asked, "Why? Is anything bothering you?"

Megan sighed and started recalling the timeline of the entire incident. Once she had everything summarized, she shared the key events with Donna.

Subsequently, Donna covered her mouth and chuckled in return. She added in a playful manner, "Don't you think it's only a matter of time before you're a member of the Wilson family?"

Megan rolled her eyes because Donna wouldn't stop laughing. Truth be told, she considered herself lucky to be able to stay next to Jake.

She was afraid he might change his mind if he was aware of the truth. In the end, she decided to stop overthinking things because she couldn't do anything to change the outcome.

Blinking her eyes with a mischievous look, Megan replied, "Can you stop pulling my leg? I'll spend the time being in his apartment, but I'll sneak my way out once every once and then because I want to stay with you as well."

Donna nodded in return, indicating she had taken note of Megan's words.

"If that's the case, I guess we'll be heading back to our respective place?"

Apart from Let's Run, Megan wasn't involved in the production of other shows because she wanted to make the most out of her limited time and avoid getting herself involved in overly time-consuming production.

When she saw the nearby boutique store, she remembered the bunch of clothes Jake had sent her which she had merely worn.

She clapped her hands when she thought of the things they could do. "Come with me! Let's go home and retrieve a few sets of clothes, then go for a candid photoshoot session!"

“You need to stop asking questions and get me a photographer as soon as possible! Please refrain from hiring someone who’s going to make a hole in my pocket! Once I retrieve the clothes, I’ll head over and meet you!”

As soon as she was home, Megan picked the clothes that would be deemed fashionable seven years later. After a simple mix-and-match session, she packed everything with her and rushed over to meet up with Donna.

Candid photography wasn’t a thing yet because smartphones weren’t made available to the public. In general, cameras with relatively limited pixels couldn’t support candid photographs, whereas digital cameras would cost a fortune. Thus, not many people in Chanaea could get do it now.

On the contrary, countless influencers would rise to fame due to candid photography within another few years. They could easily portray themselves and their unique fashion sense. One of the most iconic themes was airport fashion.

Since she knew it would be a thing soon, Megan decided to give it a try. If she could make a name for herself in the fashion industry, she would be approached by brands to endorse their products. Icon Fashion Show would be nothing more than a trivial event.

Never Late, Never Away Chapter 3305

Chapter 3305 Why Have You Chosen Me

“This way!”

When Megan heard Donna’s voice, she turned around and saw her across the street with a slender woman next to her. The relatively young woman had a digital camera with her.

“Hello, I’m Megan!”

The photographer seemed to be a woman of a few words. She deadpanned her introduction and remained silent after greeting Megan in return.

On the other hand, when Megan heard Monica’s name, her eyes widened in disbelief because she recalled Monica was the lead photographer of a top-notch fashion magazine and the youngest award-winning photographer.

Previously, she tried to procure Monica’s aid to produce her album; yet, her request was turned down because of Monica’s packed schedule.

Since I have encountered her seven years earlier, I think she’s still a college student. She doesn’t seem as intimidating as the Monica that I knew. I guess it’s because she’s still a rookie.

Monica frowned in return because she disliked others staring at her in the eyes. She asked, “Do you know me?”

Megan finally returned to her senses and waved in return. “No! I just think you look like a close acquaintance of mine! If you’re ready, let’s begin!”

Monica lowered her gaze and started adjusting the setting of her camera. Instead of groveling herself at the presence of a celebrity, the woman with a ponytail remarked in a casual manner, “Sure. The set of clothes you have put on is suitable for a photoshoot to take place at a bustling street.”

When Megan heard Monica’s remark, she was taken aback because of her sharp fashion sense. A simple glance was all it took for her to determine the appropriate theme for the photoshoot.

Impressed, Megan exclaimed, “You’re awesome! I can’t believe you’re so experienced when you’re so young!”

“It’s a remark I have made based on my hunch instead of my experience. Actually, I was never involved in a formal photoshoot before. I guess we’ll find out if I’m cut for the job or not at the end of the session.”

After Monica finished her sentence, she directed the camera at Megan in between the crowd. As a result, some of the onlookers noticed they were in the middle of a photoshoot. A few of her fans approached her for signature.

Soon, the plaza got increasingly crowded. In order to prevent from causing any disruption to the public, Megan ended up shooting at different locations.

They spent a few hours taking photos of different themes. By the time they were done, it was already five o’clock. The exhausted trio was finally done with the first candid photoshoot.

“Oh, God! We’re finally done!”

Unable to withstand the pent-up fatigue anymore, Megan took a seat at a hidden corner. Similarly, the worn-out Donna and Monica sat next to her.

After Monica wiped her sweat dry, she suggested with a deadpan look, “Check it out.”

Her attempt to save up had brought her to the renowned photographer in the future. She was determined to stay in touch with Monica to gain the first-mover advantage.

“Can you please touch up the photos on my behalf? Once you’re done, send everything to my email. Also, I’d like to hire you for the long run.”

When Megan returned the camera to Monica, she noticed the photographer was taken aback by her request. She thought Monica was worried about the rate. Thus, she said, “You don’t have to worry because I’m not going to scam you. After all, I’m considered a public figure. We can always discuss the suitable rate—”

"It's not about the money." Monica held on to the camera and interrupted Megan with a melancholic look, "I'm sure there are a lot of photographers at your service, isn't it? Why have you chosen a college student instead of a professional?"

Her question took Megan by surprise because she made it sound as though others had doubted her photography skills before.

Never Late, Never Away Chapter 3306

Chapter 3306 You Have Done Me A Huge Favor

Megan furrowed her brows when that particular thought crossed her mind. She tapped on Monica's shoulders and knew she might be confused. It might be another challenge the future renowned photographer had to counter.

Thus, Megan asserted, "I think if you submit the entire album to take part in a competition for rookies, you're going to top the chart without a doubt. I'll give you my consent to use the album. Why don't you submit it to the fashion magazine's editors? I think they're going to appreciate your work as well."

Monica would sooner or later figure out her actual talent. Thus, Megan decided to do her a favor to win her over.

On the other hand, Monica was taken aback by Megan's words. She was confused by the reason the stranger had gone to great lengths for her sake. Megan responded with a bright grin, behaving as though she was conscious of Monica's concerns.

"I'm just trying to do you a favor to stop you from doubting yourself. You look like a close acquaintance of mine, so it's not much of a big deal at all."

Megan's gentle remark worked like a charm and warded off the things bothering Monica all along. In spite of the slight change in her expression, the indifferent woman was touched for once.

"Thanks, Megan. You're such a humble celebrity."

Staring at the young woman on the stairs, Megan responded to her remark with a sincere smile. Monica seemed to have opened up to her because Megan no longer felt as distant.

It turned out Monica was the type of person who wouldn't be vulnerable in front of others unless the other party took the initiative to engage with her.

Megan shook her head and grasped Monica's hand, asserting in a gentle tone, "You're most welcome. I need to go because I still have another agenda on my schedule. Once you're done editing the photos, we'll proceed with the contract with a predetermined rate of ten thousand for a session. If the outcome turns out better than my expectation, I'll give you a bonus without imposing any limit."

The generous offer was like a dream come true for every rookie photographer. Most importantly, it was a boost to their confidence.

Overwhelmed by emotions, Monica's eyes flickered.

She nodded vigorously and grasped her camera with all her might. A few seconds later, she assured with a bright grin, "Alright, I'll get it done as soon as possible."

"Okay! I'll be waiting for you!"

As Monica disappeared amidst the street with a bustling crowd, Megan secretly prayed Monica would keep the favor she had done her in mind and continue offering her service into the foreseeable future.

"Hey, Megan! Don't you think it's a foolish decision?"

When they hailed a cab back to Donna's place, Donna broke the silence and blurted out everything she had been keeping to herself the moment they walked into the foyer.

Megan, who was on the couch, took a peek at Donna and announced with a proud look, "You know what? This is the best investment I have made over the years! Speaking of which, how did you find her?"

Donna was utterly stupefied because of Megan's seemingly baseless remark. She scratched her head in confusion and replied, "She happened to be wandering around with a digital camera. When I approached her, she thought it was a scam. Fortunately, you showed up in the nick of time and persuaded her to join us."

Megan was equally confused because it seemed too much to be a coincidence, but none of their encounters were arranged beforehand. Perhaps, fate had brought them together.

Seconds after she snapped out of confusion, Megan wrapped her arms around Donna and expressed her gratitude. "Thank you so much for approaching her! You have just done me a huge favor!"

The confused Donna arched her brows, but she had no intention to poke her nose into Megan's plan because Megan was always up to something odd.

Suddenly, Megan's heart skipped a beat when she received a call. Upon a simple glance, she noticed it was a call from Rocky.

Thus, she regained her composure and picked up the call.

"Yes?" "I have just updated my Twitter. You can check on it if you're free."

Megan was intimidated by Rocky's drastic change of behavior. The man who tried to force him into submission had morphed into an easygoing person after her trip back.

It might have something to do with his near-death experience. That must be the reason he had started seeing things from a different point of view.

Immediately, she beckoned Donna to switch on the computer and instructed, "Hurry up and check your Twitter account!"

She was on pins and needles as she wondered if Rocky had drafted the post according to her request.

Aware of how Megan was feeling, Donna logged into her account within a few seconds and found Rocky's account. They had their eyes glued to the screen and started perusing the status.

"Since I'm in a great mood, I'll answer a few of the netizens' questions regarding a particular male celebrity's sexual preference! Well, it's impossible for him to have a thing for men! Even if he does have a thing for men, he's going to be the sugar daddy instead because he's filthy rich!" "Let's not forget he's the champion of the talent show. On top of that, he has made a name out of himself the very moment he debuts. He has access to all sorts of resources without needing the support of a sole sponsor." "The incident was supposed to be an internal conflict of Sky Entertainment, but the stubborn celebrity has accidentally offended his higher-ups. As a result, he was lured into a trap that was set to get rid of him."

Megan was impressed by the way Rocky delivered everything in a non-biased manner; yet, he managed to clarify everything Jonas was accused of. He avoided naming those involved and shared his point of view with the netizens, including the truth.

It didn't matter if the netizens would be convinced or not because that was merely the first phase of the plan. Soon, she would take part in another show with Jonas. Thus, she was certain everything would be resolved by then.

"Megan, why are you spacing out? Hurry up and check on the part that involves Mia!"

Donna turned around and grasped Megan's sleeves, showing her the rest of the post.

"I'm sure everyone is having quite a boring weekend, isn't it? Shall we talk about the latest gossip regarding a female celebrity? Are you guys aware she has demanded the production crew to reshoot the entire show because she couldn't even make it through the preliminary? There was more to that because she actually meddled with the judges' decision and decided on the ones to be eliminated on their behalf! I guess she's the only one befitting the title of Starling Media's diva, huh?"

Once again, Megan nodded in satisfaction when she read Rocky's analysis. Since Jacinta was the one holding the title of Starling Media's diva, another showdown between Jacinta and Mia would soon take place.

On top of that, Rocky had mentioned the juiciest part without holding back. Thus, Megan was certain Let's Run latest episode would top the chart again.

"Check out the comments immediately!"

Megan couldn't wait to figure out the netizen's response towards the issues Rocky had highlighted. They started perusing the comments again after Donna scrolled to the comment section.

"I'm sure the male celebrity is Jonas, but I can't be sure if Megan or Mia is the female celebrity that has been mentioned! However, all things considered, it's safe to assume he's talking about Mia!"

"I have always thought something was going on behind the scenes regarding Jonas' scandal! As the leading celebrity of Sky Entertainment, the company didn't bother to clarify things on his behalf! It's obvious they want to ruin his career!"

"Mia is up to no good again, huh? When she was involved in a commercial shoot in our school, I saw her beating the director up! Unfortunately, her fans insisted it was the director's fault!"

Megan was glad because she had achieved her goal of provoking the netizens. The gossipmongers on the internet were susceptible to biased remarks. Others would be influenced by these biased comments and change their mind soon.

"Megan, don't you think it's over for Mia?" After going through the comments reprimanding Mia for being arrogant, Donna secretly prayed for her wellbeing.

Sneering, Megan announced, "We shall see how it goes once the latest episode of the show is aired! I'm pretty sure things will spiral out of control soon! Osmond can try to salvage Mia's innocent image as much as he wants, but it's not going to change the outcome. After all, she was never innocent, to begin with."

Chapter 3308 One Last Trial

The duo had a great time ridiculing Mia on the couch. When they started engaging in a casual conversation, Donna received a call out of the blue.

She excused herself and picked up the call before returning to the couch after a few minutes.

"It's a call from Monica. She said she had dropped you an email and attached the edited photos."

Megan's eyes gleamed in excitement. She logged into her account and came across an email with no subject.

There were a total of nine photos with three different themes, including artistic looks, refreshing looks, and formal looks. Those happened to be the upcoming trends in the years to come that were suitable for women from all walks of life.

Megan perused the photos and noticed Monica did a great job applying filters of different settings when using filters wasn't even a fashion yet. She was able to customize a suitable theme for the photos.

Pointing at one of the photos, Donna exclaimed, "Wow! This is so artistic!"

Megan looked in the direction of Donna's hand and saw a portrait photo with a high-contrast filter that perfectly highlighted the clothes she had put on.

"Of course! Have you forgotten she's a hand-picked member of the team? Alright, it's time for us to get going!"

A few minutes after they were posted, she received a lot of comments. Megan was delighted and decided to create a hashtag for her post.

Within ten minutes, her post went viral. Megan was slightly shocked, but those were actually part of her plan.

The outfits and styles she had put on were the exact opposite of mainstream fashion and the latest styles. Thus, she was certain it would blow up amongst youngsters soon.

“I think we need to pay Monica another few visits soon.”

Megan could barely conceal her excitement. Similarly, Donna was thrilled because she was certain Megan’s fashion sense and Monica’s exceptional photography skills would help Megan to secure her first endorsement with renowned brands.

Indeed, within an hour, Megan received a call from a person in charge who was keen to commission her upcoming photoshoot session.

She wasn’t particularly interested in that offer because ambassadorship was the one she sought. However, when the person in charge revealed the brand he was in charge of, Megan agreed to be involved and worked out the details of the shoots with him soon.

Once she hung up the call, she delivered her instruction with a serious look, “Donna, can you give Monica a call and get her to tag along with me for the session? I can’t afford to mess this up!”

She then sprinted into her room and started dolling herself up, leaving a confused Donna behind.

Donna wasn’t even given the chance to direct another question at Megan.

Megan hailed a cab and departed to a high-end boutique after she dolled herself up.

Usually, top-notch global brands like this would rarely acquire the aid of influencers and relatively unknown celebrities. Although Megan wasn't asked to endorse the brand, the fact that she was commissioned for a photoshoot session meant she had proven herself worthy.

When Megan was on the phone with the brand's operational director, he told her to drop by their boutique to collect a few suitable outfits for her upcoming shoots. He would show up during the shoot to inspect if the photos produced could represent the image of the brand.

Megan was conscious that the other party still had their doubts. Therefore, the upcoming photoshoot was nothing more than a test for her.

After Megan alighted from the cab with Donna, she noticed they were way ahead of the designated time for the meeting with the director.

Never Late, Never Away Chapter 3309

Chapter 3309 Who Do We Have Here

She must have gotten overly pumped up and gotten ahead of herself.

It wouldn't be wise for her to stand at the entrance of the boutique store doing nothing. After a few minutes, she made her way into the store and started picking the outfits she deemed suitable.

The brand's clothes for the season were on a more formal note. It had relatively simple designs and monotonous colors. In terms of price and design, it was the perfect type of clothes for office ladies.

Although she was never a member of the fashion industry, she had the experience of purchasing clothes throughout her previous life.

"Miss, please be careful because it's going to cost you thirty-two thousand."

The moment Megan entered the store, a store attendant started following her around. In spite of being courteous, Megan knew she despised her presence.

Hello? It's not like clothes are fragile! It's obvious she has brought up the price to intimidate me in an attempt to chase me away.

Megan turned around with her face puckered in irritation. After she took a peek at the shop attendant, she replied with a smirk, "Oh? Can you please get me a small-sized one? I'd love to give it a try!"

The shop attendant could barely remain the straight face. She forced a smile and asserted, "I'm so sorry, but the small-sized one isn't available anymore. If you're sure you're going to purchase it, I'll get my colleagues from another branch to bring it over immediately."

She had heard of similar excuses countless times before. Megan shrugged her shoulders and deadpanned her reply, "If that's the case, can I get a middle-sized one?"

"W-We have run out of middle-sized one as well."

When she heard the shop attendant's reply, she turned around and scowled at her, behaving as though she had long seen through her lies.

"Oh! Who do we have here? Isn't this Megan?"

When Megan heard another woman's voice from behind, she turned around and noticed Jacinta was marching her way into the store.

As soon as the store attendant saw Jacinta, she rushed over to greet the top-notch celebrity with a sincere smile, "Ms. Twinkle, what sort of clothes are you here to purchase?"

Jacinta ignored the shop attendant's query and made her way over to Megan's side with her pair of heels that were etched with sparkling crystals.

"Hmm! Get me the one she's holding! I want every single size available!"

"Alright, please hold on for a short while!"

Once the shop attendant acquired Jacinta's instructions, she tried to head to the store, but Megan got ahead of her and stopped her.

She scowled at the shop attendant, showing no signs of stepping aside at all. "Haven't you told me the store has run out of small-sized and medium-sized ones? How come it shows up miraculously when Jacinta is here? Is this the way you're supposed to treat your customer?"

The shop attendant responded with a sheepish grin; yet, she wasn't apologetic at all. Nonetheless, she did a great job concealing her emotions.

"Ms. Twinkle is the store's VIP customer. Therefore, we have reserved a few for her. Ms. Rockford, if you're able to spend over three million within a year, we'd be glad to offer a similar service to you."

It was a flawless double innuendo that was capable of rendering Megan speechless and insulting her at the same time. With that being said, it was evident those were out blunt lies from the shop attendant because no stores would require their customers to spend millions to be VIP customers.

The most I have ever heard of was a few hundred thousand! It's obvious she's trying to humiliate me, indicating I'm a poor country bumpkin!

"Oh, Megan! Please stop giving her a hard time when she's just trying to do her job! If you can afford the dress you're holding, why don't you go ahead?"

Megan turned around and glared at Jacinta in the eyes because she would have enough cash to throw at her if it weren't because of the fortune she had spent to get the better of Herman.

Although she wasn't a filthy rich celebrity, it wouldn't be tough for her to gather thirty thousand to purchase a dress after working for years.

She got increasingly infuriated because they wouldn't stop humiliating her. Upon a simple glance at the entrance, Megan saw a man in a suit walking into the store.

Chapter 3310 Why Have You Chosen Her

Megan's eyes gleamed, but she put on a stern front and cast the dress she had been holding aside. Glaring at Jacinta and the shop attendant, she reprimanded, "Seriously? It seems like you're only good at picking on your customer! Since only top-notch celebrities are allowed to enter the store, why don't you print a memo and paste it at the entrance?"

As she was at the top of her lungs, the man at the entrance of the store heard the content of their conversation.

He approached them with a frown and asked, "What's with the commotion? What's going on?"

Upon another glimpse, the man noticed the ladies were none other than Megan and Jacinta.

Startled by their presence, he took a step forward and greeted Megan, "Hello, Ms. Rockford. May I know what's going on?"

The crumpled dress could be seen on the porcelain floor, while the shop attendant started perspiring in fear. Judging by Megan's reaction and Jacinta's expression, he soon ruled out the possibility of them being in an intense fight.

A few seconds later, he shoot daggers at the shop attendant next to them.

"I'll teach her a lesson immediately. On top of that, please accept the dress as a token of apology from us."

Megan scowled at the shop attendant because the man who had shown up was the store's operational director—Hudson. She had perused his information prior to her departure to get herself ready for the upcoming photoshoot. The information she had gathered beforehand ended up being leveraged to get herself out of the nasty situation.

"I guess I can't really afford any of the dresses available here! Allow me to turn down the offer because I don't want to be accused of as a thief!"

As a result of Megan's sarcastic remark, the arrogant shop attendant next to them started shivering in fear.

"I-I'm so sorry, Ms. Rockford. A-Actually, I'm also a fan of yours—"

Hudson next to the shop attendant stopped her from defending herself and reprimanded her, "Keep the rest to yourself because I won't forgive you even if Ms. Rockford decides to let you off the hook! You have just picked on our valued customer! In fact, we almost lost a precious opportunity to work with Ms. Rockford because of you!"

Colors drained from the shop attendant's face when she heard Hudson's announcement. She looked at Megan in disbelief and asked, "Sir, are you serious? She's commissioned for the brand's upcoming photoshoot?"

"What else could it possibly be? Should we hire you for the job instead? Hurry up and get out of our sight at once!"

Hudson had no intention to waste his time with the shop attendant anymore because he would have to deal with the store's valued customers.

The moment the store attendant walked away, Jacinta tucked her arms and asked with a scrunched-up face, "Hudson, have I been hearing things? Have you really commissioned her for a photoshoot?"

Once Hudson regained his composure, he nodded and replied courteously, "The candid photos Ms. Rockford uploaded on her account had portrayed her unique fashion sense. Therefore, the company has made the decision to commission her for a photoshoot with a similar theme to promote the brand."

Jacinta's expression darkened when she heard him. Infuriated, she stepped forward and drew Megan over to her side, glaring at her in the eyes.

Megan was almost lifted up because of Jacinta's pair of high heels

"What do you want from me?" Megan tried to shrug her off, but Jacinta didn't even budge. Instead, she fastened her grip, rendering Megan incapable of any movement.

Jacinta ignored Megan and glared at Hudson in an attempt to intimidate him. As compared to her usual innocent image, Jacinta seemed more like a wicked witch that would devour Megan soon.

"Hudson, do you mind telling me if she's a match for me in terms of look? Why have you chosen her over me? She's not even famous! I don't mind losing to Mia, but I can't comprehend the reason she has defeated me!"
