The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss

Chapter 2079

Since Nicole entered the door, she felt that Kirsi's sadness had exceeded her. Zach was not Kirsi's husband and was just her lover.

With Kirsi's standards, Nicole guessed that Kirsi probably did not love Zach deeply.

Thus, Nicole thought that Kirsi went a little overboard by acting sad.

Kirsi looked up at Nicole, took a deep breath, and calmed her breathing.

Kirsi seemed to be restraining her emotions. After a long time, Kirsi said with gritted teeth, "I know you look down on me. You and Lumi are friends, and since Lumi married Ian, I've become a thorn in your side. That's why you're targeting me, right?"

Nicole was a little puzzled by those words.

What was Kirsi talking about?

Kirsi sneered, threw away the tissue in her hand, and did not bother to continue pretending.

"That's right. I'm a homewrecker! I'm also a homewrecker who is about to succeed in becoming Zach's legal wife! I was so happy about Tina's death that I couldn't sleep for several days! You have a good relationship with Tina, so do you hate me even more now? That contract was proof that you and Tina wanted to get revenge on me. You two wanted me to lose everything while still pregnant with Zach's child, right?"

Clayton's face turned glum from Kirsi's outburst.

However, now was not the time to get on Kirsi's bad side.

Usually, one would let down one's guard when one was emotional.

"Zach's property already belonged to me, but with that contract, I became a joke! Fortunately, Tina died in time!"

Nicole looked at Kirsi's provoked face and frowned slightly.

"You don't know?"

How could Kirsi not know? Kirsi only thought about the contract, but the crux of the matter was not the contract. Kirsi stood opposite them and stroked her belly weakly as if she had exhausted her strength.

"Ms.Stanton, you should know better than me how Tina and Zach died."

Kirsi paused and looked at Nicole with tears in her eyes.

"I won't tell anyone, but you'd better not look for me again in the future.I don't want to be involved in these things anymore.I'm too far along to abort the baby.Otherwise, I wouldn't want to give birth to this baby."

Nicole's heart sank.She subconsciously looked at Clayton.

Nicole had a feeling that Kirsi was implying something in her words.

Clayton patted the back of Nicole's looked at Kirsi, and said in a cold tone, "How can we trust you? You said you wouldn't tell anyone, but from what you said earlier, you clearly have a grudge against Nicole.Now, you have something over her, right?"

He was just going along with Kirsi's words.

Kirsi might not tell them anything if they asked directly.

Nicole pursed her lips tightly, and her body stiffened. She could vaguely feel that Clayton had begun his game of chess.

He was trying to agitate Kirsi.

Kirsi looked at them with agitation and raised her hand in a swearing gesture.

"I swear. I'll just take it as you never came here. When Zach jumped off the building, you were just leaving. I didn't say a word about it when the police asked me! Nicole was shocked. She looked at Kirsi dumbfoundedly. Her heart felt like it was sinking into the deep sea, floating up and down, as if something was dragging her into a deeper and more terrifying place.

Nicole broke out in a cold sweat when she heard Kirsi's words.

Clayton took a deep breath.

"Please tell us what happened in detail. I want to make sure that nothing is left out."

Kirsi looked at Clayton and did not know what to make of his attitude.

Nicole seemed to be sitting there calmly, but in fact, her heart was in turmoil.

This made her feel extremely cold and frightened.

How could Nicole come here to meet Zach? What did Kirsi mean by this? Kirsi looked at Nicole with fear and disgust in her eyes, but Kirsi tried to conceal it as she did not dare to offend them.

She reached out and touched her bulging belly.

Her heart was trembling.

Under Clayton's threatening gaze, Kirsi knew that she had to do what he wanted.

Zach was dead, and Samuel avoided Kirsi like the plague.

With Kirsi's age, she could not find a better financial backer.

Kirsi could only strive for her best interests by not offending these two bigwigs.

The room was silent. Seeing Kirsi's hesitation, Clayton said in a clear voice, "I won't force you if you don't want to tell us. We'll just ask someone else."

After that, Clayton left without any hesitation.

Kirsi immediately regretted her silence.

"Wait..." She pursed her lips and glanced at Nicole.

"Why are you asking me these questions? Shouldn't Ms. Stanton know better?"

Nicole frowned.

"What do I know?"

She was about to ask when Clayton winked at her.

Nicole closed her mouth.

Kirsi took a deep breath, picked up the cup from the table, and drank the water inside.

“After the first few days of Tina’s death, Zach was quite miserable. But after learning about the document, he went crazy. He ran out to get a lawyer and went to the police. But these two days, he fell silent and said that he wanted to look for Nicole. When I came back that day, I saw Ms. Stanton standing at the door when the elevator arrived on our floor...” Kirsi paused.

Her expression changed as she raised her eyes to look at Nicole.

Nicole’s body was stiff.

She pursed her lips and looked very solemn.

Kirsi looked at Clayton, who nodded calmly and motioned for her to continue. She breathed a sigh of relief and continued, “Ms. Stanton, did you forget? At that time, you warned me not to tell anyone. Otherwise, you’ll make me suffer. I didn’t understand what you meant at the time until I went into the room and happened to see Zach jumping off the balcony... Ms. Stanton, are you still going to deny it?

Or did someone pretend to be you? Ms. Stanton, you’re not short of money, so why did you force Zach to commit suicide? Is it because Zach knows something that he shouldn’t?”

After Kirsi finished speaking, Nicole’s face gradually turned pale.

Clayton calmly said, “Oh? Then why do you think she forced Zach to commit suicide?”

Kirsi gritted her teeth.

After all, they had already come to this point, so she did not care anymore.

“She’s not short of money, so it won’t be because of the contract. The contract was very unfavorable to Zach because it proved that he and Tina weren’t on good terms. Moreover, my relationship with Zach was exposed some time ago, so everyone would suspect that Zach killed Tina. But Zach didn't kill her. Ms. Stanton, you wanted to kill Zach because he knew your secret, right? You killed Tina and wanted to put the blame on Zach, right?"

Kirsi glanced at Nicole coldly. Her eyes were red, and she raised her chin thinking she had seen through Nicole's scheme.

Kirsi was afraid, but she also knew that Nicole would not do anything to her now because she was a public figure and so many people had died.

Thus, Kirsi felt emboldened

They could hear the wind howling from the balcony.

Kirsi jolted up and looked over.

She looked scared probably because she was traumatized by Zach jumping off the balcony.

Kirsi saw Clayton's extremely cold eyes. He looked so ruthless and intimidating, which made her shudder.

Her expression changed. Just as she was about to say something, Clayton stood up.

Clayton waved to Nicole and said in a light tone, "Let's go."

Nicole pursed her lips and walked over to Clayton, who took her hand and walked out.

Clayton could feel the sweat on her palms due to her nervousness.

Kirsi did not expect them to leave and was slightly surprised. 1

"Ms. Stanton, I... I won't say anything. I'll keep my mouth shut from the police for as long as I'm alive."

Kirsi seemed calm, but she was in actuality very anxious. She thought, 'Why did Nicole and Clayton come here? Are they testing me? Or do they want to kill me because I know what happened?'

Kirsi thought about it and felt that she was too careless. She should not have said anything.

Nicole turned her head slightly with emotions in her eyes that Kirsi could not comprehend.

She pursed her lips. "I think you should hire a few bodyguards just in case. Otherwise..."

Nicole did not finish her sentence.

It was hard to tell whether the person who forced Zach to jump off the building would attack Kirsi. 1

Kirsi's face turned pale.

Nicole followed Clayton downstairs.

Neither of them spoke.

Clayton's face turned even colder and sterner than Nicole imagined.

Nicole just could not figure out why Kirsi saw her that day when she did not meet Zach.

Was Kirsi lying?

No, Kirsi would not dare to lie.

There was only one reason Kirsi would say that – Kirsi indeed saw Nicole at the elevator door that day.

Clayton and Nicole got into the car, which was still parked.

Clayton looked at Shane and said coldly, "Go to Southeast Asia and look for Angie in person. Didn't she want to take over some of Tyler's businesses? Get her to sign the contract for the club that Snakehead is hF;\wN8PVling and give it to her. Remember to meet her face to face."

Shane nodded.

Nicole looked at Clayton and frowned.

"Do you suspect Angie?"

Clayton asked her back. "Don't you suspect her too? Back then, Angie could imitate you so well. It's hard to say whether she's just looking for trouble again..."

Nicole paused, frowned, and thought about it.

“But why didn’t we get any news if she’s back? The police too... Also, why did she have to kill Tina and Zach? If she wants to target me, wouldn’t it be more convenient to just kill me?”

A coldness filled Clayton’s eyes, but he quickly hid it.

His tone was soft as he patted the back of her hand.

“She can’t even get close to you. Even if she wants to kill you, she won’t have a chance. That’s why she targeted the people around you. If she frames you and you lose your reputation because of it, her plan can be considered a success.”

Nicole sat in the car, dumbfounded. She pursed his lips and said nothing.

After a long time, she spoke coldly, “I always felt sorry for Angie because she suffered no less than I did with Eric. But why did she want to target me? I’m not a threat to her, and we don’t have any grudges!” 2

Clayton chuckled lightly and touched Nicole’s soft, long hair.

“You’re too simple-minded. She’s not targeting you because she hates you. She might just be unwilling or unconvinced, but no matter what, there will always be a million reasons to go against you. Maybe... It’s not just you that she’s targeting, but also me.”

Clayton finished speaking.

There was a long silence in the car.

Luca parked the car when they arrived at the Stanton Mansion.

Clayton did not rush out of the car.

He frowned, took out his phone, found a number that he rarely dialed, and called that person.

“Hey, look for Kirsi Makinen and do something for me.”

Nicole, who had just gotten out of the car, was slightly taken aback when she heard Kirsi’s name.

She walked over, held the car door with one hand, and placed her other hand on Clayton’s seat.

“Why are you looking for her? She’s pregnant, so forget it.”

Clayton looked at Nicole with amusement and raised his eyebrows.

“What did you think I would do? Would I go after a pregnant woman? I’m a law-abiding good citizen here!”

Clayton tapped Nicole’s forehead. Nicole felt the pain and let go of him.

Clayton got out of the car.

He tidied up his collar and said with a smile, “I just want her to watch her mouth. If she says otherwise, it’ll be very hard to rid you of suspicion from this case.”

Nicole breathed a sigh of relief.

Indeed. If the police heard what Kirsi said, Nicole would get into big trouble.

Getting Nicole into trouble was that impersonator’s motive.

Although Nicole did not like Kirsi, she would not want Kirsi to die.

Moreover, if another person was murdered at this time, the situation would be very chaotic, and the other party would get what they wished for.

Nicole did not ask Clayton what he would do to ensure Kirsi kept silent about this. It did not matter as long as there was no trouble.

When Nicole and Clayton walked into the house, they could hear Floyd's and other people's hearty laughter. They looked at each other in surprise.

Floyd rarely invited guests over to his house. He usually liked to meet his friends at fishing spots.

However, Floyd twisted his back, so he could not wander around and had to stay at home to recuperate.

Nicole went in with a smile and did not see a chubby child rolling around at her feet.

She was startled. Clayton was about to kick the "thing" away, but he stopped when he saw that it was a child.

The two of them were puzzled when they saw a stranger's child in the Stanton Mansion.

Mr. Anderson ran in from outside and said with a smile, "Young Lady and Young Master, this child is Mr. Jay Malone's grandson. His name is Fischer, and he's only two years old." 3

Mr. Anderson helped Fischer up.

Fischer Malone was only a little older than Chatty, but he could already shake both his hands in greeting. He had a silly smile as he said, "Get rich! Get rich..."

Nicole and Clayton were speechless.

Chatty laughed as she drove her little train over. She shouted inarticulately, "Fish! Fish! Little Fish..."

Fischer heard his nickname and ran over happily. He got on the train that Chatty drove, and the two children drove away.

Nicole clicked her tongue. The two children got along so well as if they had known each other for a long time.

Mr. Anderson smiled. "They're not at all shy with strangers. You two should go in and say hello to Mr. Malone."

Nicole raised her eyebrows in shock and quickly nodded.

She heard about Jay Malone before. Jay was already an influential figure back when Stanton Corporation was still a small company.

Floyd encountered a lot of difficulties when he founded Stanton Corporation. Floyd could only overcome such difficulties under Jay's guidance.

Nicole glanced at Clayton and said in a low voice, "My dad has always been grateful to Mr. Malone, who migrated abroad with his son more than ten years ago. I think he just returned to the country."

Clayton raised his eyebrows and smiled. "I know him. Jay Malone is a pioneer in the investment world."

Nicole smiled and nodded.

"He's also my mother's first love."

Jay and Floyd had a teacher-student relationship. They were also friends and rivals in love.
